

Nation Paying Tribute To Memory Of Great Babe Ruth

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—The life and times of Babe Ruth, the greatest slugger of them all, will be vividly recalled today all over the land.

Today, the sports world will pause for additional tribute on the first anniversary of the Babe's tragic death from cancer in a New York hospital.

The homerun king died at 8:01 p. m., Aug. 16, 1948.

At that same hour tonight, a minute of silence will be observed in ball parks all over the nation. On side Yankee Stadium in New York, often called the "House That Ruth Built," city fathers, Yankee officials and the Babe's widow, Claire, will participate in the dedication of "Babe Ruth Plaza."

Such observances are only a small part of what is being done to preserve the memory of the colorful figure who meant so much to baseball and the youth of America.

The Babe Ruth Foundation, composed of outstanding sportsmen and businessmen, has contributed $24,000 to help the National Education Association inaugurate a sportsmanship award program for the "kids" Ruth helped so much during his lifetime.

One thousand schools will be selected for original participation with more to be added in coming years. Medals will go to two students in each school, who will be selected by their schoolmates on the basis of all-around fair play, not merely popularity or athletic prowess.

Earlier this year, the Babe Ruth Foundation turned over $107,500 to the American Cancer Society to help fight the disease that claimed Ruth as a victim.

Later this month, the American Legion plans to recognize his youth activities with a posthumous award of its distinguished service medal during its national convention in Philadelphia.

A stadium in his native Baltimore has been named for the Babe.

A Babe Ruth Wing is under construction at baseball's Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N. Y.

He lives on in the hearts of youngsters who weren't even born when he hit his last homer in 1935.

INTERNATIONAL IMPLICATIONS SEEN

Phones In Gangster's Home Tell Of Many Deals, Claim

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16—Revelation that Los Angeles police built secret microphones into the walls of Mobster Mickey Cohen's fortress-like home more than two years ago brought indications today of sensational repercussions.

Police stationed at listening posts for nearly a year obtained incriminating recordings and hundreds of pages of transcript of highly explosive conversations in the gangster kingpin's elaborate $120,000 Brentwood residence.

Telephone conversations between Cohen and his gangland connections in New York, Miami, Boston, San Francisco, Cleveland and numerous other cities indicated the wide scope of Cohen's activities.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron and Police Chief W. A. Worton said copies of the information obtained have been placed in their hands.

GOPsters Getting Acquainted With Their New Party Chieftain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Guy Gabrielson's first act as the new Republican national chairman is to confer today with his party's real between-convention policy makers—its leaders in Congress.

The New Jersey attorney, elected to succeed Hugh Scott Jr., meets today with Senate Republican policy committee members and officials of the Senate GOP conference. He has been on vacation since his Aug. 4 election.

Tonight he will talk with the party's farm policy subcommittee members, three from each house.

Wednesday is tentatively set aside for a similar get-acquainted meeting with House leaders.

Thursday, Gabrielson is to lunch with Senate campaign committeemen and their 1950 candidates.

Sen. Smith, (R) N. J., said he was playing host for Gabrielson, a conservative-hued native of Iowa who made his business and political career in Smith's home state.

Shirley France Near Start Of Channel Swim

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 16—Shirley May France sailed today for Calais, for her English Channel swim—but her departure was anything but a happy send-off.

The 17-year-old Somerset, Mass., schoolgirl, who may begin her gruelling swim at midnight tonight, refused to let photographers take pictures, and left the Calais mail boat under a police escort.

For a moment it appeared as if Shirley wouldn't make the crossing at all. But the police helped her board a rear gangway and the vessel left for the French coast.

Her father, J. Alter France, indicated earlier that if the weather forecast for tonight is favorable, Shirley will begin the rigorous grind. France and Shirley's manager, Ted Worner, stayed behind at Dover.

SHIRLEY, apparently weary of interviews, photographers and publicity, left the Dover hotel by a back entrance, but was spotted by wary reporters.

The press corps followed her aboard, and it was then that the attractive blonde American girl balked at having pictures taken.

She was accompanied by her coach, Harry Boudakian, and her chaperone, Mary Louise Walsh.

When Shirley starts her swim, she will follow the usual course from Cap Gris Nez, on the French coast, to Dover.

During the last few days the Somerset girl showed signs of impatience at the repeated delays caused by the inclement weather.

Would-Be Hero Is Injured

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 16—George E. Ebright of Springfield sported a neat white bandage today, covering eight equally neat scratches in his head.

Seems George and Charles Woodward were looking for a fishing spot along Mad River, when Woodward, who couldn't swim, fell in.

George, who didn't want to lose a friend, dove in to rescue Woodward. The water was only two feet deep.

Broader Social Security Program Given Go-Ahead

NO WARNING PERIOD NECESSARY

Sheriff Pledges Immediate Drive Against Noisy Trucks In County

A declaration Tuesday by Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff shot into high gear a campaign to reduce noises caused by lack of mufflers on trucks.

The sheriff declared he fully intends to start making arrests of the noise makers. He said his drive will start immediately, that there will be no preliminary warning period.

Stressing that he is entering the drive in the expectation of receiving the utmost cooperation from two other law enforcement agencies in the county—city police and the State Highway Patrol—the sheriff pointed out that the law against mufflers is an existing fact.

"No warning period is necessary," he said.

City police began a drive against violators of the muffler law last week with the issuance of warning slips to truck drivers.

THE SLIPS GIVE operators until Aug. 25 to equip their vehicles with adequate mufflers.

Police Chief William McCrady said that since issuance of the slips there has been a noticeable decrease in noise within the city.

Sheriff Radcliff said that since his department is understaffed, his drive against the noise makers will of necessity be a sporadic affair.

He said it is impossible for him to detail either of his two deputies to patrol the roads fulltime searching for violators of the muffler law.

He said that constant patrol of that sort is the duty of the State Highway Patrol. But he added that his deputies are under orders to keep a lookout for violators.

The sheriff urged county residents to report violations to his office.

"If we get valid complaints in here, we'll go out and make the arrests," he said. His phone numbers are 116 and 124.

The sheriff said that as far as the law on overloaded trucks is concerned, his department can do little without the full cooperation of the State Highway Patrol.

$75 Billion More In Pay Tax Is Seen

11 Million New Persons To Benefit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—The House Ways and Means Committee today formally approved a broadened new Social Security program to be financed during the next two decades by an additional $75 billion in payroll taxes.

The vote was 22 to 3.

The committee directed its chairman, Rep. Doughton, (D) N. C., by a vote of 20 to 5, to ask the rules committee to clear the legislation to the floor under a procedure which will not permit revision.

The legislation would thus have to be approved or rejected by the House without change.

The bill is expected to be called up in the House next month.

The new bill embodied the most extensive revision of the nation's Social Security laws in 10 years. It was worked out by the 25-member group after more than three months of closed-door sessions.

THE LEGISLATION extends the program to an additional 11 million persons, increases benefits for retired workers and their dependents, and provides $256 million more in federal aid to the states for direct relief.

The program's new and increased activities would be financed through an increase in the existing two percent payroll tax, one-half of which is now paid by employers and one-half by employees.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1950, the tax would be boosted to three percent, or 1½ percent for each category.

The three percent tax would remain in effect during 1950, rising to four percent for the period 1951 through 1959; five percent for 1960 through 1964; and six percent for 1965 through 1969. Beginning in 1970 it would level off at 6½ percent.

The average Social Security benefit received by a retired worker at age 65 would be increased under the bill from approximately $26 monthly to nearly $45. The existing $10 monthly minimum would rise to $25, while the $45 maximum would go to $64.

Foreign Affair Minority Seeks To Kill Arms Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Four House foreign affairs committeemen declared today that U. S. air power and the atomic bomb will do more to halt Russian aggression than the proposed arms-aid program.

The four congressmen in a minority report on the administration's military assistance bill declared that they were unwilling to go more than "half way" in approving arms aid for Western Europe.

The four—Reps. Richards, (D) S. C., Vorys, (R) Ohio, Judd, (R) Minn., and Burleson, (D) Texas—declared:

"The only security for Western Europe lies in resolute, concerted, agreed defense plans and an organization prepared in advance. No such plan is now in existence."

MEANWHILE, Speaker Rayburn, (D) Tex., predicted that the House will override advocates of a slash and approve the arms bill "without substantial change."

He said the measure will be called up for House debate tomorrow if the rules committee, as expected, gives it clearance.

In another development, the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees decided to reopen their public hearings on the arms-aid bill to permit opposition witnesses, including Henry Wallace and Norman Thomas, to testify.

Chairman Connally, (D) Tex., announced that the hearing would resume tomorrow, if possible, but would not continue for more than two or three days.

The House foreign affairs committee approved the bill last night by a vote of 14 to 5.

The four committeemen in their minority report said they have learned "how difficult it is for the nations of Western Europe to overcome their rivalries and jealousies and get together and how ineffective" the United States has been in efforts to promote such unity.

They called on Congress to authorize only half of the $1,160,000 provided in the bill for Western Europe until the recipient countries "meet us half way" by the production of concrete evidence of a unified defense.

Camp Meet Start Set

12-Day Service Draws Hundreds

Hundreds of persons were expected to have begun flooding into Circleville Tuesday to participate in the 41st annual Mount of Praise camp meeting on East Ohio street.

The camp meeting is to begin its 12-day services at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday with a statewide young people's rally, when several of the young ministers from the Churches of Christ in Christian Union will be introduced.

Wednesday's session of the camp meeting is to be Sunday school day, with the first service scheduled for 10 a. m. Representatives from the various Sunday school departments will speak during the day, with the Rev. Eddie Burnum to speak at 2 p. m. and the Rev. Joe Johnson to finish the services by speaking at 7:30 p. m.

On Thursday the first business session of the camp meeting council will begin at 8 a. m., followed by a service at 10:30 a. m. delivered by the Rev. Randolph Graham of Columbus.

THREE MORE business sessions are booked for both Friday and Saturday, and the camp meeting proper will get underway Sunday.

Lancaster's 'Hot Ham' Case Nearing Finale

LANCASTER, Aug. 16—The "hot ham" case neared its climax today as six men faced sentencing here, three awaited jail terms in Franklin County, and indictments against five men were dropped.

Fairfield County Prosecutor James S. Peterson asked Judge Harry Kilburger to drop charges against five men under indictment for receiving and concealing meat stolen from the Swift and Co. packing plant in Columbus in 1948, because of lack of evidence.

They were Hubert Jeffers, Pontiac, Mich., a former Lancaster policeman; William W. Starrett, cook and meat buyer; Fred O. Snyder, butcher; Russell C. Snyder, butcher; and John L. Johnson, restaurant operator.

Johnson was one of the 13 men indicted by the Fairfield County grand jury who were found not guilty on one charge. However, he was indicted on another charge.

China Reds Say Boss Still Alive

TOKYO, Aug. 16—The Communist radio in Peiping today inferentially denied a Nationalist report that Chinese Communist Boss Mao Tze-Tung is dead.

A Nationalist spokesman reported in Canton yesterday that the 56-year-old Mao died in Peiping of tuberculosis on July 17.

The Communist radio said Mao spoke in Peiping Aug. 13 before the "all society circles" conference, which the number one Chinese Red described as the forerunner of a projected new assembly.

Mantis Wins Battle With Bat

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—A three-inch Praying Mantis, outweighed 100-to-one, killed a bat today by biting its throat before a crowd of spectators on a downtown Columbus street.

The battle raged in silence for 10 minutes on a ledge near the entrance to the Leveque-Lincoln office building tower. The bat lunged forward and the mantis sank its sharp teeth in its throat and the rodent rolled over dead.

Ohio State University Entomologist Dr. Alvah Peterson said he had never before heard of such a fight involving the Mantis, which is one of the most cannibalistic insects.

Kirk May Tell Of Stalin Talk

MOSCOW, Aug. 16—U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk may issue a statement today on his "cortesy visit" with Premier Joseph Stalin last night.

Admiral Kirk met with the Soviet leader for about 45 minutes inside the Kremlin. It marked the first time in almost a year that Stalin had conferred with a U. S. diplomat.

The last such conference was on Aug. 22, 1948, when U. S. Ambassador Gen. Walter Bedell Smith and the British and French envoys met with the generalissimo on the Berlin blockade issue.

Scientists Find Virus For Illness Similar To Polio

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16—Yale university scientists announced today the isolation of a virus which causes a disease similar to polio, but which does not leave its victims paralyzed.

The isolation of the virus was announced in the current issue of the Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

The virus was isolated as a result of studies of the 1948 polio outbreaks in Southern New England, North Carolina and Texas. The finding confirms a discovery originally made at the New York state department of health laboratories.

The unnamed virus was found in patients suffering from the polio-like disease, all of whom recovered in approximately ten days without harmful effects. Many of the cases (Continued on Page Two)

CAB Aide Checks Crash Of Liner

GALWAY, Ireland, Aug. 16—A U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board investigator arrived in Ireland today and immediately questioned crew members on the Atlantic crash-landing of a four-engine airliner in which nine persons were killed and 49 dramatically rescued.

Investigator George R. Clark lost no time in interrogating Capt. Edward Bessey, pilot of the ill-fated transoceanic C-54, and other crewmen, resting at nearby Ennis.

Sen. Taft Says Administration Playing 'Possum'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R) Ohio, today accused the administration of playing a "possum game" to lull opponents of President Truman's proposal to create a federal department of welfare.

The President's Reorganization Plan No. 1, which would convert the Federal Security Agency into a cabinet department, admittedly will result in a "close vote" either way.

Taft is leading republican opposition to the proposal. The plan is scheduled for Senate consideration today, with debate limited to 10 hours under terms of the reorganization act.

The Ohio senator said administration leaders are trying to convince opponents that they are ready to admit defeat while the White House is bringing "pressure" on Democrats to support the plan.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas, Ill., has advised the Senate that there will be a night session, if necessary, to get a vote today.

Mantis Wins Battle With Bat

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—A three-inch Praying Mantis, outweighed 100-to-one, killed a bat today by biting its throat before a crowd of spectators on a downtown Columbus street.

The battle raged in silence for 10 minutes on a ledge near the entrance to the Leveque-Lincoln office building tower. The bat lunged forward and the mantis sank its sharp teeth in its throat and the rodent rolled over dead.

Ohio State University Entomologist Dr. Alvah Peterson said he had never before heard of such a fight involving the Mantis, which is one of the most cannibalistic insects.

Kirk May Tell Of Stalin Talk

MOSCOW, Aug. 16—U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk may issue a statement today on his "courtesy visit" with Premier Joseph Stalin last night.

Admiral Kirk met with the Soviet leader for about 45 minutes inside the Kremlin. It marked the first time in almost a year that Stalin had conferred with a U. S. diplomat.

The last such conference was on Aug. 22, 1948, when U. S. Ambassador Gen. Walter Bedell Smith and the British and French envoys met with the generalissimo on the Berlin blockade issue.

Scientists Find Virus For Illness Similar To Polio

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16—Yale university scientists announced today the isolation of a virus which causes a disease similar to polio, but which does not leave its victims paralyzed.

The isolation of the virus was announced in the current issue of the Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

The virus was isolated as a result of studies of the 1948 polio outbreaks in Southern New England, North Carolina and Texas. The finding confirms a discovery originally made at the New York state department of health laboratories.

The unnamed virus was found in patients suffering from the polio-like disease, all of whom recovered in approximately ten days without harmful effects. Many of the cases (Continued on Page Two)

CAB Aide Checks Crash Of Liner

GALWAY, Ireland, Aug. 16—A U. S. Civil Aeronautics Board investigator arrived in Ireland today and immediately questioned crew members on the Atlantic crash-landing of a four-engine airliner in which nine persons were killed and 49 dramatically rescued.

Investigator George R. Clark lost no time in interrogating Capt. Edward Bessey, pilot of the ill-fated transoceanic C-54, and other crewmen, resting at nearby Ennis.

Sen. Taft Says Administration Playing 'Possum'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R) Ohio, today accused the administration of playing a "possum game" to lull opponents of President Truman's proposal to create a federal department of welfare.

The President's Reorganization Plan No. 1, which would convert the Federal Security Agency into a cabinet department, admittedly will result in a "close vote" either way.

Taft is leading republican opposition to the proposal. The plan is scheduled for Senate consideration today, with debate limited to 10 hours under terms of the reorganization act.

The Ohio senator said administration leaders are trying to convince opponents that they are ready to admit defeat while the White House is bringing "pressure" on Democrats to support the plan.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas, Ill., has advised the Senate that there will be a night session, if necessary, to get a vote today.

FEDERATION STILL EYED

Neither Stalin Nor Ana Pauker Worrying Tito

LONDON, Aug. 16 — Marshal Tito's Balkan cockpit fight today is basically against a graying Stalin—but a petticoat also is showing.

Ana Pauker is no slip of a girl. She is a woman who long ago deserted the skillet to cook up trouble outside the kitchen. She has bullet scars beneath that heavy tweed suit to prove it.

And today Ana is very much in the fight against Tito. Her strong voice in the Cominform is trying to overthrow the Yugoslav dictator.

The Moscow-Belgrade struggle goes back to the early post-war years. Tito then talked with Bulgarian Communist Premier Georgi Dimitroff about the idea of creating a Danube federation. Ana, the militant Communist woman who is reputedly linked by direct telephone to Stalin and does not take orders from lesser Communist figures, opposed any scheme in which it looked like Tito or Dimitroff would be the leader. After all, she is very ambitious herself.

MOSCOW'S anti-federation attitude is more understandable. The Kremlin sees any move in that direction as a "deviation"—a possible route of defection from the Kremlin.

U. S. lend-lease in 1943 was deemed by Stalin to be more than international agency dedicated to promoting planetary Communism.

So Stalin dissolved it to placate the United States which supplied aid to the hard-pressed Russian troops.

Then came the Cominform after the war to fight that same United States which poured out billions of dollars under the Marshall Plan to aid Europe recover from the war.

Poland, Czechoslovakia and perhaps others wanted such aid, but Moscow said no. Such a decision might lead to satellite defection.

Tito still has not given up the idea of a federation. In fact he seems to be basing his whole truculent tone on a belief that Russia does not dare to go to war against him, especially at a time when heavy commitments in the Far East seem to be the Kremlin's main concern.

There is no substantiation for reports that the Russians are important than the Comintern—concentrating troops near Yugoslavia. Tito himself laughs at the idea, terms it a war of nerves which cannot crack or frighten his regime.

Wellpott said he learned Cohen eventually became aware of the microphones. The mobster himself said:

"Sure, the day after I moved into the house in April, 1947, I knew there were mikes and bugs and my phones were wired. I found where the underground cables from the mikes led to. I knew Wellpott and others were listening in on the earphones."

Cohen scoffed at the possibility of incriminating evidence against him might have been obtained.

ON THREE different occasions in the recorded conversations, allusions were made to Cohen's contacts with unions. In this connection, Mickey expressed fear of Westbrook Pegler, crusading newspaper columnist who has long fought against gangsterism in unions. One transcript said:

"Mickey says he hopes Pegler never hears his name."

Another time Mickey expressed fear Pegler might learn about his part in a certain operation.

County Chiefs May Buy New Home Furnace

Pickaway County commissioners Tuesday pondered the problem of installing a new floor furnace in the boys gym at the County Children's Home. They turned thumbs down on a request for a system of plumbing for the tenant house there.

Superintendent Winfield Koch said the furnace could be installed for $345. He said tests have shown that 70,000 British Thermal Units would be required to heat the gym adequately.

He said the new heater would consist of two units, each supplying 35,000 BTUs. This would be sufficient to keep the temperature inside at 70 degrees, while the thermometer registered zero outside, he added.

During previous Winters the gym has been heated by a coal stove. Koch said this not only was an inadequate source of heat, but was a dangerous fire hazard too, especially when games were being played in the gym.

Koch said the work of digging trenches for the installation of gas pipe would be undertaken by Home personnel.

Commissioner Lyman Penn said the commissioners were inclined to look with favor on purchase of the new heater.

Penn said installation of plumbing for the tenant house was out of the question at the present time. He said funds are too low to attempt the work now.

Senate Told Of Hunt 'Pressure'; Truman Eyeing Vaughan's Status

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Senate investigators were told today that James V. Hunt, alleged "five percent," claimed responsibility for the appointment of Maj. Gen. Alden Waitt as chief of the Army's chemical corps.

The testimony was given to the Senate committee probing Washington's "influence" sellers by Lt. Col. Roy T. Evans, assistant chief of the supply division of the quartermaster general's office.

Committee investigators meanwhile set out to check an alleged case of "pressure" by Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan and his friend, John Maragon, on the Agriculture Department.

Committee Counsel William Rogers said the "five percent" probes are inquiring into reports that Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, and Maragon attempted to clear the Allied Molasses Co. of Perth Amboy, N. J., of an Agriculture Department complaint.

EVANS, WHO said he knew Hunt "very well" and worked in the same office with him in the quartermaster general's office in 1942, reported on a social gathering he and Hunt attended a year and a half ago. Evans told the committee:

Petticoat Army In Philly For WCTU Confab

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16—A petticoat army of teetotalers descended upon Philadelphia today to urge one and all to bend an ear instead of an elbow.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union wagon rolled into town with the familiar entreaties to climb down from the barroom stool and get aboard the wagon.

The ladies, who become plenty scrappy in teaching others to be temperate, are celebrating their diamond jubilee, with the organization's 75th annual convention opening today and continuing through Aug. 24.

Some 3,000 delegates and visitors are expected to hear the WCTU's program for waging an intensified war on alcoholic beverages and narcotic drugs.

The convention marks the founding of the organization in Cleveland in 1847 to "make permanent" the work of the women's temperance crusade, in which women's "leagues" the year before had marched on and closed saloons in 250 communities in 22 states.

In the crusade, groups of women knelt in barrooms and in the snow outside, praying that the saloons might close. The chapter in Americana was immortalized by a now famous engraving, "Here They Come," which showed women marching. Bibles in hand, against bars and barkeepers.

The WCTU's membership approximates 400,000 women in 10,000 state, district, county and local unions in every state, territory and insular possession. For years Pennsylvania has had the largest membership of any state.

State Official Moves To Close Gambling Joint Near Warren

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16 — Industrial Relations Director Albert A. Woldman said today he would issue a "forthwith" closing order on the Jungle Inn near Warren, probably before the end of the week.

Woldman said the order would be issued on practically the same grounds as that that closed the Mounds Club in Lake County last month.

The state liquor department announced earlier today that charges had been filed in the Trumbull County court of common pleas against some 20 persons arrested in Friday's raid of the gambling spot.

The nature of the charges was not immediately available. Meanwhile an ouster citation had been served against Mayor Charles Sedore Jr. of Halls Corners, location of the Jungle Inn.

WOLDMAN revealed that his office had conducted a thorough inspection on the day before state liquor department agents raided the place last Friday.

He said his agents found virtually the same construction faults in the Jungle Inn that were present in the Mounds Club.

Woldman also said he did not believe these faults could be corrected by simple repairs.

He said they probably would require a complete rebuilding of the Jungle Inn.

The director said the Jungle Inn would be closed as "a nuisance and a hazard, both to its employees and the public."

He said the inspection last week was conducted by Robert A. Skipton, acting head of the building division in his department, and two inspectors, Robert Hough and Aaron Baughman.

Woldman said the inspection trip yesterday, when state agents were locked out of the Jungle Inn, was made by his men only to make a few photographs. He said the lockout would have no effect on his plans.

MEANWHILE, the Pettibone Club, Geauga County gambling spot, apparently is undisturbed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche's campaign against organized gambling in Ohio.

Although the Pettibone Club reportedly had voluntarily closed, some 500 automobiles were seen in the parking lot last night.

Cleveland officials previously had reported that gambling equipment was moved from the club some two weeks ago to a barn in the same area, which is being used as a gaming house. The club still is operating bingo and keno games, it was added.

Two employees of the Mounds Club went on trial in Painesville municipal court yesterday for illegal possession of liquor as a result of the July 9 raid by agents under Liquor Enforcement Chief Anthony A. Rutkowski.

The defendants are Thomas

Farley, 56, of Erieside, identified as the club manager, and Emil Ray Rehart, 34, of suburban East Cleveland, a bartender.

Richard J. Moriarty, counsel for the two, told the jury that bottles of cognac and rum confiscated in the raid "were used in the preparation of sauces for various dishes served at the evening meal."

Lake County Prosecutor Thomas H. Blakely and his assistant, Oliver R. Marshall, said Rutkowski and Richard Marts, chief liquor enforcement officer from Cleveland, would be the state's last witnesses today.

Moriarty reported that the club, ordered closed because of state building code violations and firetraps, was awaiting approval by state officials of alteration plans.

Remainder of the meeting will call for services beginning at 7:30 a. m. every morning and lasting throughout the day, with final services at 7:30 p. m.

One of the highlights of the meeting will be an address at 2 p. m. Aug. 27, delivered by the Rev. Victor Glenn, who recently returned from a tour of Egypt and Central Europe.

Special music and singing during the 12-day program will be directed by Neil V. Keaton.

The Rev. E. A. Keaton, in charge of this year's annual camp meeting, said Tuesday all accommodations in Mount of Praise have been reserved, and that many persons are seeking rooms in Circleville.

Outstanding evangelistic speakers to be featured during the session are Dr. John L. Brasher, the Rev. Dwight L. Ferguson and the Rev. Don Humble.

Circleville police are to have extra duty during the sessions, directing traffic near the Mount of Praise campgrounds. At least one officer will be stationed at the campgrounds at all times during the day.

Senate Told Of Hunt 'Pressure'; Truman Eyeing Vaughan's Status

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Senate investigators were told today that James V. Hunt, alleged "five percent," claimed responsibility for the appointment of Maj. Gen. Alden Waitt as chief of the Army's chemical corps.

The testimony was given to the Senate committee probing Washington's "influence" sellers by Lt. Col. Roy T. Evans, assistant chief of the supply division of the quartermaster general's office.

Committee investigators meanwhile set out to check an alleged case of "pressure" by Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan and his friend, John Maragon, on the Agriculture Department.

Committee Counsel William Rogers said the "five percent" probes are inquiring into reports that Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, and Maragon attempted to clear the Allied Molasses Co. of Perth Amboy, N. J., of an Agriculture Department complaint.

EVANS, WHO said he knew Hunt "very well" and worked in the same office with him in the quartermaster general's office in 1942, reported on a social gathering he and Hunt attended a year and a half ago. Evans told the committee:

"At social gatherings, Hunt liked to put himself in the position of knowing a lot of important persons in Washington. He wanted to impress people.

"On this particular occasion he said he was responsible for Waitt being in his present position and that he got Woods his job and also Larson."

The latter references were to Tighe Woods, housing expediter, and Jess Larson, former War Assets Administrator and now head of the government's new General Services Agency.

Meanwhile, it was reported that President Truman plans to stick by Vaughan unless given good reason to do otherwise.

Informed sources said today the chief executive does not feel that Vaughan's gifts of home freezers to top federal officials is sufficient reason to change the attitude he has had for his friend of 30 years standing.

RATHER, the President is said to feel that the "deep freeze incident" is a temporary embarrassment caused White House and other government circles.

He feels that while his long-time friend and associate may have been indiscreet, there has been no evidence brought out thus far in the Senate investigation of wrong-doing on his part.

Vaughan, who first met the President when they were at Fort Sill, Okla., training to go to France in World War I, holds an entirely different position from a professional Army officer in his role as presidential military aide.

He enjoys immunities that would not extend to a professional soldier.

He is a presidential appointee and serves at the discretion of the President. He is not subject to be shifted to other assignments every two or three years, as applies to the services.

A story is told about an exchange between the President and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, then chief of staff.

He asked General Ike to take up problems through Vaughan and that, in turn, when he had Army problems in hand he would have Vaughan see the chief of staff.

Then, turning to Vaughan, the President is said to have directed:

"At other times, you mind your own business."

Whether Mr. Truman may decide that his old National Guard pal and Senate secretary hasn't carried out that order may depend on the Senate hearing.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. GEORGE BRUNNER. Mrs. Rosa P. Brunner of 235 East High street died in her home at 2:30 p. m. Monday after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Brunner, who lived in her present home 83 years, was born in Pickaway County in 1863. Her parents were Christian Goldhardt and Fredericka Steigle Goldhardt, both natives of Masbach, Germany.

She was the widow of George J. Brunner, who preceded her in death. Surviving her are a son, Robert C. Brunner, of Columbus; a daughter, Mrs. Lena Thatcher of the home; a grandson, John J. Brunner of Springfield, and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Mader Funeral Chapel at 3 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. George Troutman will officiate. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the home until 11 a. m. Wednesday.

HARRY SHEPHERD. Harry L. Shepherd, 42, for years a farmer of the Mount Sterling community, was to have been buried Tuesday afternoon in Mount Sterling cemetery.

Surviving him are his widow, Leah Binn Shepherd, formerly of near New Holland; his mother, Cora Shepherd; and a sister, Mrs. Medith Hart, who is a nurse in White Cross hospital, Columbus.

Mr. Shepherd was a member of Mt. Sterling American Legion Post.

In Franklin County, meanwhile, court officials said that three men indicted in connection with the thefts will be sentenced by September. They are:

Herrell Jeffers, 27, of Columbus, and David Halderman, 46, and Joseph Burke, 30, both of Lancaster. Jeffers pleaded guilty to grand larceny and the others to receiving and concealing stolen property.

Two bonds for minor traffic violations were forfeited in mayor's court Monday.

William Justice of Columbus forfeited a $3 bond on an accusation of running through a stoplight at the intersection of Court and Main streets.

Carl Olney, 20, of 173 Hayward avenue forfeited a $10 bond for allegedly speeding on North Court street. Both men were arrested by Officers Mack Wise and Charles Scott.

State Official Moves To Close Gambling Joint Near Warren

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16 — Industrial Relations Director Albert A. Woldman said today he would issue a "forthwith" closing order on the Jungle Inn near Warren, probably before the end of the week.

Woldman said the order would be issued on practically the same grounds as that that closed the Mounds Club in Lake County last month.

The state liquor department announced earlier today that charges had been filed in the Trumbull County court of common pleas against some 20 persons arrested in Friday's raid of the gambling spot.

The nature of the charges was not immediately available. Meanwhile an ouster citation had been served against Mayor Charles Sedore Jr. of Halls Corners, location of the Jungle Inn.

WOLDMAN revealed that his office had conducted a thorough inspection on the day before state liquor department agents raided the place last Friday.

He said his agents found virtually the same construction faults in the Jungle Inn that were present in the Mounds Club.

Woldman also said he did not believe these faults could be corrected by simple repairs.

He said they probably would require a complete rebuilding of the Jungle Inn.

The director said the Jungle Inn would be closed as "a nuisance and a hazard, both to its employees and the public."

He said the inspection last week was conducted by Robert A. Skipton, acting head of the building division in his department, and two inspectors, Robert Hough and Aaron Baughman.

Woldman said the inspection trip yesterday, when state agents were locked out of the Jungle Inn, was made by his men only to make a few photographs. He said the lockout would have no effect on his plans.

MEANWHILE, the Pettibone Club, Geauga County gambling spot, apparently is undisturbed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche's campaign against organized gambling in Ohio.

Although the Pettibone Club reportedly had voluntarily closed, some 500 automobiles were seen in the parking lot last night.

Cleveland officials previously had reported that gambling equipment was moved from the club some two weeks ago to a barn in the same area, which is being used as a gaming house. The club still is operating bingo and keno games, it was added.

Two employees of the Mounds Club went on trial in Painesville municipal court yesterday for illegal possession of liquor as a result of the July 9 raid by agents under Liquor Enforcement Chief Anthony A. Rutkowski.

The defendants are Thomas

Farley, 56, of Erieside, identified as the club manager, and Emil Ray Rehart, 34, of suburban East Cleveland, a bartender.

Richard J. Moriarty, counsel for the two, told the jury that bottles of cognac and rum confiscated in the raid "were used in the preparation of sauces for various dishes served at the evening meal."

Lake County Prosecutor Thomas H. Blakely and his assistant, Oliver R. Marshall, said Rutkowski and Richard Marts, chief liquor enforcement officer from Cleveland, would be the state's last witnesses today.

Moriarty reported that the club, ordered closed because of state building code violations and firetraps, was awaiting approval by state officials of alteration plans.

dates for ordination are to be ordained in an impressive ritual, followed by preaching services at 10:30 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Remainder of the meeting will call for services beginning at 7:30 a. m. every morning and lasting throughout the day, with final services at 7:30 p. m.

One of the highlights of the meeting will be an address at 2 p. m. Aug. 27, delivered by the Rev. Victor Glenn, who recently returned from a tour of Egypt and Central Europe.

Special music and singing during the 12-day program will be directed by Neil V. Keaton.

The Rev. E. A. Keaton, in charge of this year's annual camp meeting, said Tuesday all accommodations in Mount of Praise have been reserved, and that many persons are seeking rooms in Circleville.

Outstanding evangelistic speakers to be featured during the session are Dr. John L. Brasher, the Rev. Dwight L. Ferguson and the Rev. Don Humble.

Circleville police are to have extra duty during the sessions, directing traffic near the Mount of Praise campgrounds. At least one officer will be stationed at the campgrounds at all times during the day.

County Chiefs May Buy New Home Furnace

Pickaway County commissioners Tuesday pondered the problem of installing a new floor furnace in the boys gym at the County Children's Home. They turned thumbs down on a request for a system of plumbing for the tenant house there.

Superintendent Winfield Koch said the furnace could be installed for $345. He said tests have shown that 70,000 British Thermal Units would be required to heat the gym adequately.

He said the new heater would consist of two units, each supplying 35,000 BTUs. This would be sufficient to keep the temperature inside at 70 degrees, while the thermometer registered zero outside, he added.

During previous Winters the gym has been heated by a coal stove. Koch said this not only was an inadequate source of heat, but was a dangerous fire hazard too, especially when games were being played in the gym.

Koch said the work of digging trenches for the installation of gas pipe would be undertaken by Home personnel.

Commissioner Lyman Penn said the commissioners were inclined to look with favor on purchase of the new heater.

Penn said installation of plumbing for the tenant house was out of the question at the present time. He said funds are too low to attempt the work now.

Violating Nature's Laws Brings Trouble, Club Told

Violating the basic laws of nature can produce disastrous results, Circleville Kiwanis Club members were told Monday evening.

Speaker before the club was Waldo Stedman, local greenhouse operator and student of nature and the Bible.

Citing instances where man's "civilization" has flouted the laws laid down by Mother Nature, Stedman indicated that "civilization" has a high price.

He declared that the laws of nature originally were perfectly balanced to sustain plant and animal life along with man. He pointed out that the eastern half of the United States was virtually all forest when it first was settled.

The area east of the Mississippi river was inhabited by about a quarter-million Indians. Scattered over what is now about 25 states, the Indians, evenly proportioned, would have numbered only a few more than the present population of Circleville—for the entire state of Ohio.

All the Indian needed was food, shelter and clothing. These he found in the forest—without harming the forest.

But civilization came and the civilized man had the same basic needs—except that he wanted permanent shelter. In gaining that, he cut down trees for his houses and fences surrounding his clearings.

Animals of the forest, Stedman said, found easier hunting in the clearings where smaller animals were penned in. Man, fighting off the forest beasts, eventually destroyed the bulk of wild game.

In the western half of the United States, Stedman continued, there were few forests, but the Buffalo grass had stood eight inches thick.

Over this roamed an estimated 25 million bison. In 25 years of "civilization" nearly all of these were killed off and civilized man plowed up the rich sod for farm lands.

Stedman blamed this for the current plague of locusts in the areas west of the Mississippi. He said locusts need soft soil in which to drop their eggs where they may hatch. They could not find such before the thick Buffalo grass was plowed up.

The local greenhouse expert blamed this phase of civilization for the continued increase in locusts.

He declared that man overstepped a law of nature several years ago in West Virginia. There state officials, attempting to preserve deer in their native state, fenced off 1,000 acres of forest land.

Forty head of deer were placed in the enclosure. About five years later, a count of deer showed 200—all healthy. After a 10-year interval, there were 700 deer—but none too healthy. A check at the 15-year interval still showed 700 deer along with many skeletons.

Officials found the deer to be starved. They turned all the deer loose. But, Stedman reported, it was about seven years before the second growth of timber started. He explained that the starved deer had rooted deep into the earth for food and had destroyed seeds and undergrowth which would have produced more forest.

AUSTRALIA, he said, originally never had rabbits. Two Englishmen imported 24 from their homeland. To day, since

Australia's basic nature made no provision for this type animal, the continent is overrun with rabbits. Stedman said: "Rabbits in Australia are a greater pest than the locust is in America."

In New Zealand, Stedman continued, man again failed in his attempt to do a job better than Mother Nature. The country had a large number of snakes and the mongoose was imported to cut down the snake population.

Eventually the number of snake decreased and many mongooses appeared. However, farmers who once disliked snakes found that mice were now taking their crops.

Stedman declared this showed that Mother Nature intended that snakes should abound to cut down on the mouse population.

The greenhouse proprietor concluded: "Mother Nature puts everything in its place for a purpose. Changing those things violates laws and penalties must be paid."

City Detective Admits Cracking Sailor's Jaw; Hearing Continues

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—A Columbus detective admitted yesterday that he broke the jaw of a Port Columbus sailor, and the investigation into alleged police brutality moved into its third day today.

Detective Kenneth Anderson told the investigating committee that he "stepped inside" the right arm of Sailor Fred Campbell and hit him, fracturing his jaw.

He said Campbell and two companions were apprehended when they broke two light bulbs in a Columbus department store with their fists.

The report of the Columbus Bar Association, which requested the investigation, said that Campbell broke the bulbs by touching them with wet hands, exploding them. The report said that two plainclothesmen jumped from a police car and, "without asking questions," struck Campbell.

A CHASE ENSUED, with the sailors splitting up and the detectives following on foot. One of the sailors, Thomas H. Boggs, 22, now a Chillicothe Veterans Hospital attendant, said: "Campbell yelled and we took off. We didn't know they were the law."

The detectives' car bore no markings.

When he asked about Campbell's jaw at the police station, Boggs said he was told:

"There's nothing wrong with his jaw—he's just got a glass jaw."

Campbell was taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment.

The committee also heard testimony from Dr. Henry H. Schwarzell who described a temporary eye injury suffered by Columbus Attorney Otis Buchanan in a fight with eight or ten patrolmen when he was arrested on a drunk charge.

Dr. Arthur M. Culler said that Buchanan's eye is expected to recover. He is scheduled to testify today.

Buchanan was the first witness in the Aug. 8 opening day hearing. He testified that he was beaten by eight or ten policemen. The police said he fought "like a wild man and that they had to 'knock him out four times' before he was put into a strait jacket.

THE DRINKING charges against the attorney were dropped when it was discovered that his blood contained .13 percent of alcohol. A man is not considered intoxicated until his blood contains at least .15 percent of alcohol.

Witnesses in cases involving several more Port Columbus sailors are scheduled to testify in today's hearing. The committee was handed 11 cases of alleged brutal treatment at the beginning of the investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Puckett of Columbus visited Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Puckett.

The Ashville-Lockbourne Lutheran outdoor services and picnic held Sunday at Community Park, Ashville, was well-attended. In the afternoon the Ashville members defeated the Lockbourne members in a softball game 8 to 3. The Rev. C. A. Holmquist was the winning pitcher while Don Hafez toiled for the losers.

The annual Ashville-Lockbourne Lutheran chicken roast will be held Wednesday in Community Park. E. F. Martin, E. C. Hafez, and B. C. Duvall have been appointed cooks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Morrison and grandson, Jay, visited Sunday in Coshocton.

City Detective Admits Cracking
Sailor's Jaw; Hearing Continues

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—A Columbus detective admitted yesterday that he broke the jaw of a Port Columbus sailor, and the investigation into alleged police brutality moved into its third day today.

Detective Kenneth Anderson told the investigating committee that he "stepped inside" the right arm of Sailor Fred Campbell and hit him, fracturing his jaw.

He said Campbell and two companions were apprehended when they broke two light bulbs in a Columbus department store with their fists.

The report of the Columbus Bar Association, which requested the investigation, said that Campbell broke the bulbs by touching them with wet hands, exploding them. The report said that two plainclothesmen jumped from a police car and, "without asking questions," struck Campbell.

A CHASE ENSUED, with the sailors splitting up and the detectives following on foot. One of the sailors, Thomas H. Biggs, 22, now a Chillicothe Veterans Hospital attendant, said: "Campbell yelled and we took off. We didn't know they were the law."

The detectives' car bore no markings.

When he asked about Campbell's jaw at the police station, Boggs said he was told:

"There's nothing wrong with his jaw—he's just got a glass jaw."

Campbell was taken to St. Francis hospital for treatment.

The committee also heard testimony from Dr. Henry H. Schwarzell who described a temporary eye injury suffered by Buchanan in a fight with eight or ten patrolmen when he was arrested on a drunk charge.

Dr. Arthur M. Culler said that Buchanan's eye is expected to recover. He is scheduled to testify today.

Buchanan was the first witness in the Aug. 8 opening day hearing. He testified that he was beaten by eight or ten policemen. The police said he fought "like a wild man" and that they had to "knock him out four times" before he was put into a strait jacket.

THE DRINKING charges against the attorney were dropped when it was discovered that his blood contained .13 percent of alcohol. A man is not considered intoxicated until his blood contains at least .15 percent of alcohol.

Witnesses in cases involving several more Port Columbus sailors are scheduled to testify in today's hearing. The committee was handed 11 cases of alleged brutal treatment at the beginning of the investigation.

WORKING IN GERMANY

MANY of today's working girls are seeing Europe differently than did their mothers and aunts who crossed the ocean in the interests of culture and clothes.

Government employees are signed for two-year terms, and handle work as librarians, hostesses, teachers, secretaries and statistical analysts. Salaries are commensurate with those paid for the same work at home, and living quarters are furnished. Food in the government mess is uninspiring, and the attitude of the German people is not always helpful. With the passage of time, however, and the application of patience and good humor, the American girls become acclimated to life in an occupied country, and the undoubted usefulness of their work is a great morale builder.

There are few more eye-opening experiences than this kind of a European sojourn. These girls will never again take for granted life's luxuries in America, nor look with indifference on European problems. They will have spent fruitful years, across the Atlantic.

DRIVERS' LICENSES

AS THE time approaches for residents of many states to renew their automobile drivers' licenses the example of South Dakota may be pointed to as a proof of their necessity.

The only state which does not require such licenses, South Dakota has the highest record for automobile accidents in a 13-state area. Opponents of a recent bill to require licenses claimed that tourists were responsible for most of the mishaps. Investigation showed that the largest number occurred, however, in the months when tourist traffic was lightest.

Following much publicity, some states are reviewing their position and furthering legislation to make licensing conditions more stringent. As the number of automobiles increases, driver qualifications become more important. Carefully enforced, they will cut down the present appalling accident rate.

THE FISH

WHY are cynical listeners always so quick to doubt the truth of the angler's tale about the fish which broke his line, or escaped his hook? To be sure he did not get it close enough to measure it with rule and scale, but he felt the pull of it against his hands, he saw the slash of its tail in the water, and saw it leap triumphantly off to freedom. If it broke his line, surely that is evidence that the fish was of no small size and strength. If it was able to twist its body and defeat the play of the rod so as to get off the hook, surely that denotes such wisdom and skill as are not gained in a single summer.

Let the angler have his due. It is disappointment enough that the prized catch was not brought to his net. Why should he, in addition, be met with incredulity?

These Days

The object of diplomacy used to be to protect a country, to strengthen it, to use war as an instrument of national development, to employ peace to gain allies, to support friends, to achieve national pre-eminence. In a word, the focus of diplomatic activity was the nation. At certain stages of history, for the word "nation," might be substituted "dynasty" or "empire" but in essence, it all meant the same.

After World War I, the concept was developed of the world state and a feeble beginning was made in that direction by means of the Paris treaty and the covenant of the League of Nations. The latter instrument was the invention of Woodrow Wilson and Jan Smuts. The major object was to eliminate the theory of the Balance Of Power which had served Great Britain so admirably since Queen Elizabeth's time and which Talleyrand had employed so successfully to rescue Europe from the Napoleonic era.

James T. Shotwell, professor at Columbia university, is father of the doctrine that war should not be used as an instrument of national policy and he wrote the Kellogg-Briand Pact which was to strengthen the League of Nations and end war forever more. Shotwell has exercised a much greater influence upon American action than is generally known, for he has been the philosopher behind all the Carnegie peace activities and all the societies for the development of the world state. While his philosophy is hopeful, its implementation by our State Department has made this country extraordinarily weak.

For our focus is off. Those who have been conducting our foreign policy, certainly since Franklin D. Roosevelt became President, have concentrated upon the world state rather upon the specific interests of the United States. When the interests of the United States came into conflict with the concept of the world state, the United States was sacrificed.

Specific examples of that conflict and attitude are the Hull treaties; the forsaking of the Monroe Doctrine and the substitution thereof of the ephemeral "Good Neighbor Policy"; the Morgenthau Plan; the agreements at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam; the military instrument JCS 1067; the departure from a century old China policy; lend-lease without a quid pro quo; the Marshall Plan as a one-way instrument.

Exceptions to this general pattern appear in the Truman Doctrine concerning Greece and Turkey; the Baruch Plan for the atom bomb; the political support of the French and Italian governments as part of the Marshall Plan; the North Atlantic Alliance as a military measure in search of allies. But the exceptions are not always clear in action. In a word, the focus is still off.

The result of all this, as the events already show, is that whereas the United States theoretically won a great war, actually it has lost the peace and is now constantly on the verge of another war. In fact, the war is so close and the situation is so desperate, that even small events become magnified, as, for instance, when the Chinese Communists hold our ambassador to that country prisoner in their country, embarrassing his departure, we dare not act lest action precipitate a war. National logic demands for support for both Franco and Chiang Kai-shek, but world state diplomacy conflicts with national logic.

Floating Kidney a Condition Helped by Simple Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NORMALLY, the kidney, though not fixed, is held firmly in position by the tissues around it, particularly the layers of fat in which it is packed. Sometimes, however, in very thin individuals, this support is lacking and the kidney becomes freely movable. The resulting condition is known as renal ptosis or floating kidney.

Floating kidney most often develops in extremely underweight women between the ages of 30 and 50. The symptoms, which are much like those occurring in colitis, including a dragging sensation in the abdomen, nervousness, backache, sickness at the stomach and vomiting. One frequent symptom is pain in the kidney area, passing forward and downward. It is brought on by unusual exercise or hard work, and relieved by lying down.

Urinary Symptoms

About one out of five patients with floating kidney complain of such urinary symptoms as frequent emptying of the bladder, pain on emptying the bladder, and the necessity for emptying the bladder at night.

On the other hand, in about one-third of the cases of floating kidney, the symptoms present do not seem to be related in any way to the kidney.

But here is encouraging news. Most of the patients with floating kidney can be relieved by simple means. Often, the patient finds that the wearing of a supportive belt gives relief, although such a belt cannot keep the kidney in place. Improvements in the diet with gains in weight, reducing the amount of work, and increasing the periods of rest and recreation, are a definite help in many cases.

An Operation

Sometimes, operation may be required. However, it should be done only when the patient's symptoms are definitely shown to be due to dropping of the kidney and there is evidence of interference with the normal kidney function.

Out of 21 patients who were operated on to fix the kidney in place, 11 had relief from their symptoms. Ten were not benefited. Of the 11 who obtained relief, only 3 were completely and permanently cured.

Before a diagnosis of floating kidney can be made, a careful X-ray study must be carried out and tests of the kidney function employed. If the diagnosis is established, the doctor will decide just what type of treatment will be most useful.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The UAW has been very patient with Ford. The company was given every opportunity to increase its workers' earnings and cut its own.

It is hard to understand why a bargain of this kind is not immediately snapped up.

Harry Bridges is having the same kind of difficulty with Hawaii. There it's the territorial government that's trying to run its own affairs.

And if Hawaii is not very careful, the congress may vote to exclude her from statehood. That is, the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

It is called congress because Republicans are a minority in it.

But UAW leadership shows a nicer sense of balance today than ever before. A little work, a little walk, a little work, a little walk.

SYNOPSIS
Finding herself suddenly broke, young, beautiful, socially prominent Terry Austin flies from Guatemala to New York bent on making a brilliant marriage. No one knows that Terry's vast family fortune had been swept away in a Central American political fiasco, no one except her old school girl friend, Helen Lannis, now happily married and living in New York. Helen stands by secretly, staunchly. Things begin to happen for Terry when she and Helen visit the Johnsons in Connecticut.

CHAPTER EIGHT

AT FOUR o'clock Dick Johnson appeared, with his guest. He walked in without knocking and inquired, "May I, or am I in disgrace? And is it teatime? And who is this completely glamorous... Oh, hello, Mrs. Lannis."

"You can't mean me," said Helen, as Gwen made the introductions. They were all talking at once. "This is Chris Russell," Dick said, a little proudly.

Russell was tall, with thick fair hair. His eyes were blue as the Pacific. He had a little scar on his temple, the finest hands Terry had ever seen, and the most beautiful teeth. Evidently the silver spoon had not injured them.

Gwen nudged Helen aside. She said, awed, "Dick's sober. He says he wants tea."

So they had tea and Russell refused a highball, as did Frank. "Don't leave me," said Dick, grinning. "You can take it, I can leave it alone."

He was a thin boy, looking much older than twenty, with a sharp, precocious face and tired eyes. He was intensely restless, and Terry noticed that Russell kept an eye on him, not at all ostentatiously. Chris himself was the most relaxed person she had ever seen.

He came to sit by her presently, and said, putting his cup on the table in front of the couch, "So you're Terry Austin. I used to hear about you."

She said, "Years ago some of your family visited us—it was in Guatemala. Your father and mother, perhaps?"

"No, my father's cousin and his wife," he said. "I heard about it the following summer when I returned from college on the mainland."

"Are you here for long, or are you going back?" he asked. "I don't know for how long. There's a job waiting but I've been home only once, since the war ended. I've been knocking around South America, Cuba—and all over the mainland. It's hard to settle down."

She asked, "Didn't I read about you during the war?"

He said hastily, "If you did, forget it. It's over now."

But she had read something. He'd been in the navy, the ship had been torpedoed. She looked at the little scar again. He had flushed slightly, and the scar stood out white. She thought, Even if he wasn't Chris Russell...

... But he was; and you couldn't...

separate him from his background. They stayed for dinner, though Gwen cried distractedly, "There isn't enough to go around, Dick." But Dick insisted over Chris's protests. He said, "I'll go light, Gwen. Chris deserves a break, he's been nursing me for three months in the apartment, while the family was south. And tutoring me as well."

"You were in town," asked Gwen, "and didn't let us know, or come out?"

"Chris kept me under cover. But I let him out now and again." Paul asked, "What do you mean, tutoring?"

Chris grinned. "I had nothing to do," he explained, "and all Dick needs is to learn to concentrate and to brush up on math, where he's weakest. He can get into college now if he wants, if, during the summer, he's willing to try again."

After dinner, Chris took Terry aside. He said "Put on a coat and come on out. There may not have been enough to go around for Gargantua but there was more than enough for me. Let's walk it off," he suggested.

Terry went upstairs to get the mink jacket and Helen tore up after her. Watching her friend redden her lips before the mirror on the high chest of drawers, watching her bright, reflected eyes, Helen warned uneasily, "Really, Terry, not the first man you meet?"

Terry swung around. "Why not the first instead of the twenty-first?" she demanded. "Sometimes things happen like that. Don't you think he's attractive, Helen?"

"Yes. Also he's Chris Russell, not that I need remind you. I had no idea of course at first what that meant. If he wasn't Chris Russell, would you find him so interesting?"

"How can I tell? How do you detach anyone from the things that are part of him?"

"I wouldn't know," Helen admitted.

Terry smiled at her. "Don't fuss, darling." She caught up the jacket and moved toward the door, adding, "He'll be off guard with me, you know."

Helen understood. She said grimly, "I wish you luck," rose, and put her arm through Terry's. "Come along, then. And I mean it when I say... good luck."

In the corridor Terry said, "A toast, if we had anything to toast in, to the Austins and the Russells."

"A plague on both your houses," Helen said, and was sorry at once when Terry's eyes clouded. She added swiftly, "I didn't mean that—it was stupid of me, Terry."

There was a sliver of a moon like a silver shaving, and the wind had dropped. Chris and Terry walked on the terrace and then stopped to lean on the low wall that ran around it. And he said, "I like this place—not only the house but the setting, all the country around it. I have never before been in New England. I went to college on the West Coast, where I didn't, I may add, graduate. I was too anxious to get in from the beginning, so, in 'forty-one, I left."

She asked, "Shall you be here long?"

"I don't know. I can't seem to settle down. I've never had much heart for the sugar business. And less now. I suppose that eventually, I'll go back. And you?"

They talked easily, almost as old friends do. She said "There's no incentive for me to return to Central America, Mr. Russell. And as Helen Lannis is my closest friend, I'd like to be near her. I expect to make some visits during the summer. But perhaps I'll return to New York to stay."

He said, "Our paths might not cross again unless we plan that they shall. May I call you at the Lannis' next week?"

"I wish you would," she added after a moment, "I admire you for what you are doing for Dick Johnson."

He said, "It may not stick, but I hope so. He's not the hopeless case his parents believe. There's nothing wrong with him but no interests and too much money. And the fact that ever since he was a kid his sterling-citizen brothers have been held up to him as examples, in sports, deportment and scholarship. Dick's never liked sports, his deportment has always been an outward expression of rebellion, and his scholarship scanty. But I think he'll pull out of it. I became interested in him mainly because my brother, who was killed in Italy, was much the same type. And then I had time on my hands..."

He added, "Next week Dick is going south to be with his parents. I think it will be all right. If it isn't, I'll join them. Meantime I'll call you."

He stood quite close to her, and she was very conscious of it. She looked through the bare boughs delicately branched against the dark sky and thought that soon they would be misty green and later laden with bloom. She felt a longing for spring that was almost physical pain. And a lightness, a lifting of her heart. She thought, He may not be drawn to me particularly, perhaps he is just being courteous. It would be too good to be true.

Then to her astonishment he said just that, breaking their silence. "This is too good to be true," he said.

"What is?" she asked faintly. "Meeting you," he answered. (To Be Continued)

Little Hope This Session For U. S. Education Aid

Rep. Borden's Bill Bottled In House Labor Committee

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—It is considered doubtful at this time that action will be taken during this congressional session on the highly controversial Borden Bill for Federal Aid to Education.

Chairman John Lesinski (D), Michigan, who opposes the bill on the ground that it is discriminatory, has bottled it up in the House labor committee—and chances are that it will stay right there.

The House, in fact, may be prevented from passing any aid to education bill at all because of the bitter controversy in Congress over provisions of the bill sponsored by Rep. Graham A. Borden (D), North Carolina.

If an education bill gets through the House, on the other hand, it will probably be a bill already passed by the Senate instead of the Borden measure.

Both Lesinski and House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (D), Massachusetts, prefer the Senate bill.

The dispute over the Borden bill centers around a provision specifically barring the use of federal funds for educational aid to private and parochial schools.

The Senate bill provides that this question of distribution should be left for the states themselves to decide.

Borden and his supporters may try to block the Senate bill if the labor committee fails to report their measure—as is likely.

Their success in this attempt would mean that there would be no federal aid to education legislation during this congressional session

Representative John Lesinski

Food in the government mess is uninspiring, and the attitude of the German people is not always helpful. With the passage of time, however, and the application of patience and good humor, the American girls become acclimated to life in an occupied country, and the undoubted usefulness of their work is a great morale builder.

There are few more eye-opening experiences than this kind of a European sojourn. These girls will never again take for granted life's luxuries in America, nor look with indifference on European problems. They will have spent fruitful years, across the Atlantic.

DRIVERS' LICENSES

AS THE time approaches for residents of many states to renew their automobile drivers' licenses the example of South Dakota may be pointed to as a proof of their necessity.

The only state which does not require such licenses, South Dakota has the highest record for automobile accidents in a 13-state area. Opponents of a recent bill to require licenses claimed that tourists were responsible for most of the mishaps. Investigation showed that the largest number occurred, however, in the months when tourist traffic was lightest.

Following much publicity, some states are reviewing their position and furthering legislation to make licensing conditions more stringent. As the number of automobiles increases, driver qualifications become more important. Carefully enforced, they will cut down the present appalling accident rate.

THE FISH

WHY are cynical listeners always so quick to doubt the truth of the angler's tale about the fish which broke his line, or escaped his hook? To be sure he did not get it close enough to measure it with rule and scale, but he felt the pull of it against his hands, he saw the slash of its tail in the water, and saw it leap triumphantly off to freedom. If it broke his line, surely that is evidence that the fish was of no small size and strength. If it was able to twist its body and defeat the play of the rod so as to get off the hook, surely that denotes such wisdom and skill as are not gained in a single summer.

Let the angler have his due. It is disappointment enough that the prized catch was not brought to his net. Why should he, in addition, be met with incredulity?

These Days

The object of diplomacy used to be to protect a country, to strengthen it, to use war as an instrument of national development, to employ peace to gain allies, to support friends, to achieve national pre-eminence. In a word, the focus of diplomatic activity was the nation. At certain stages of history, for the word "nation," might be substituted "dynasty" or "empire" but in essence, it all meant the same.

After World War I, the concept was developed of the world state and a feeble beginning was made in that direction by means of the Paris treaty and the covenant of the League of Nations. The latter instrument was the invention of Woodrow Wilson and Jan Smuts. The major object was to eliminate the theory of the Balance of Power which had served Great Britain so admirably since Queen Elizabeth's time and which Talleyrand had employed so successfully to rescue Europe from the Napoleonic era.

James T. Shotwell, professor at Columbia university, is father of the doctrine that war should not be used as an instrument of national policy and he wrote the Kellogg-Briand Pact which was to strengthen the League of Nations and end war forever more. Shotwell has exercised a much greater influence upon American action than is generally known, for he has been the philosopher behind all the societies for the development of the world state. While his philosophy is hopeful, its implementation by our State Department has made this country extraordinarily weak.

For our focus is off. Those who have been conducting our foreign policy, certainly since Franklin D. Roosevelt became President, have concentrated upon the world state rather upon the specific interests of the United States. When the interests of the United States came into conflict with the concept of the world state, the United States was sacrificed.

Specific examples of that conflict and attitude are the Hull treaties; the forsaking of the Monroe Doctrine and the substitution thereof of the ephemeral "Good Neighbor Policy"; the Morgenthau Plan; the agreements at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam; the military instrument JCS 1067; the departure from a century old China policy; lend-lease without a quid pro quo; the Marshall Plan as a one-way instrument.

Exceptions to this general pattern appear in the Truman Doctrine concerning Greece and Turkey; the Baruch Plan for the atom bomb; the political support of the French and Italian governments as part of the Marshall Plan; the North Atlantic Alliance as a military measure in search of allies. But the exceptions are not always clear in action. In a word, the focus is still off.

The result of all this, as the events already show, is that whereas the United States theoretically won a great war, actually it has lost the peace and is now constantly on the verge of another war. In fact, the war is so close and the situation is so desperate, that even small events become magnified, as, for instance, when the Chinese Communists hold our ambassador to that country prisoner in their country, embarrassing his departure, we dare not act lest action precipitate a war. National logic demands for support for both Franco and Chiang Kai-shek, but world state diplomacy conflicts with national logic.

Floating Kidney a Condition Helped by Simple Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

NORMALLY, the kidney, though not fixed, is held firmly in position by the tissues around it, particularly the layers of fat in which it is packed. Sometimes, however, in very thin individuals, this support is lacking and the kidney becomes freely movable. The resulting condition is known as renal ptosis or floating kidney.

Floating kidney most often develops in extremely underweight women between the ages of 30 and 50. The symptoms, which are much like those occurring in colitis, including a dragging sensation in the abdomen, nervousness, backache, sickness at the stomach and vomiting. One frequent symptom is pain in the kidney area, passing forward and downward. It is brought on by unusual exercise or hard work, and relieved by lying down.

Urinary Symptoms

About one out of five patients with floating kidney complain of such urinary symptoms as frequent emptying of the bladder, pain on emptying the bladder, and the necessity for emptying the bladder at night.

On the other hand, in about one-third of the cases of floating kidney, the symptoms present do not seem to be related in any way to the kidney.

But here is encouraging news. Most of the patients with floating kidney can be relieved by simple means. Often, the patient finds that the wearing of a supportive belt gives relief, although such a belt cannot keep the kidney in place. Improvements in the diet with gains in weight, reducing the amount of work, and increasing the periods of rest and recreation, are a definite help in many cases.

An Operation

Sometimes, operation may be required. However, it should be done only when the patient's symptoms are definitely shown to be due to dropping of the kidney and there is evidence of interference with the normal kidney function.

Out of 21 patients who were operated on to fix the kidney in place, 11 had relief from their symptoms. Ten were not benefited. Of the 11 who obtained relief, only 3 were completely and permanently cured.

Before a diagnosis of floating kidney can be made, a careful X-ray study must be carried out and tests of the kidney function employed. If the diagnosis is established, the doctor will decide just what type of treatment will be most useful.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The UAW has been very patient with Ford. The company was given every opportunity to increase its workers earnings and cut its own.

It is hard to understand why a bargain of this kind is not immediately snapped up.

Harry Bridges is having the same kind of difficulty with Hawaii. There it's the territorial government that's trying to run its own affairs.

And if Hawaii is not very careful, the congress may vote to exclude her from statehood. That is, the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

It is called congress because Republicans are a minority in it.

But UAW leadership shows a nicer sense of balance today than ever before. A little walk, a little talk, a little work, a little walk.

SYNOPSIS
Finding herself suddenly alone, young, beautiful, socially prominent Terry Austin flies from Guatemala to New York on a making a brilliant marriage. No one knows that Terry's vast family fortune had been swept away in a Central American political blunder, no one except her old school girl friend, Helen Lannis, now happily married and living in New York. Helen stands by Terry, staunchly. Things begin to happen for Terry when she and Helen visit the Johnsons in Connecticut.

CHAPTER EIGHT

AT FOUR o'clock Dick Johnson appeared, with his guest. He walked in without knocking and inquired, "May I, or am I in disgrace? And is it tea time? And who is this completely glamorous... Oh, hello, Mrs. Lannis."

"You can't mean me," said Helen, as Gwen made the introductions. They were all talking at once. "This is Chris Russell," Dick said, a little proudly.

Russell was tall, with thick fair hair. His eyes were blue as the Pacific. He had a little scar on his temple, the finest hands Terry had ever seen, and the most beautiful teeth. Evidently the silver spoon had not injured them.

Gwen nudged Helen aside. She said, "Dick's sober. He says he wants tea."

So they had tea and Russell refused a highball, as did Frank. "Don't leave me," said Dick, grinning. "You can take it, I can leave it alone."

He was a thin boy, looking much older than twenty, with a sharp, precocious face and tired eyes. He was intensely restless and Terry noticed that Russell kept an eye on him, not at all ostentatiously. Chris himself was the most relaxed person she had ever seen.

He came to sit by her presently, and said, putting his cup on the table in front of the couch, "So you're Terry Austin. I used to hear about you."

She said, "Years ago some of your family visited us—it was in Guatemala. Your father and mother, perhaps?"

"No, my father's cousin and his wife," he said. "I heard about it the following summer when I returned from college on the mainland."

"Are you here for long, or are you going back?"

He shrugged. "I don't know for how long. There's a job waiting but I've been home only once since the war ended. I've been knocking around South America, Cuba—and all over the mainland. I find it hard to settle down."

She asked, "Didn't I read about you during the war?"

He said, "If you did, forget it. It's over now." But she had read something. He'd been in the navy, the ship had been torpedoed. She looked at the little scar again. He had flushed slightly, and the scar stood out white. She thought, Even if he weren't Chris Russell... But he was; and you couldn't.

separate him from his background. They stayed for dinner, though Gwen cried distractedly, "There isn't enough to go around, Dick." But Dick insisted over Chris's protests. He said, "I'll go light, Gwen. Chris deserves a break, he's been nursemaiding me for three months in the apartment, while the family was south. And tutoring me as well."

"You were in town," asked Gwen, "and didn't let us know, or come out?"

"Chris kept me under cover. But I let him out now and again." Paul asked, "What do you mean, tutoring?"

Chris grinned. "I had nothing to do," he explained, "and all Dick needs is to learn to concentrate and to brush up on math, where he's weakest. He can get into college now if he wants, if, during the summer, he's willing to try again."

After dinner, Chris took Terry aside. He said, "Put on a coat and come on out. There may not have been enough to go around for Gargantua but there was more than enough for me. Let's walk it off," he suggested.

Terry went upstairs to get the pink jacket and Helen rose up after her. Watching her friend reddening her lips before the mirror on the high chest of drawers, watching her bright, reflected eyes, Helen warned uneasily, "Really, Terry, not the first man you meet!"

Terry swung around. "Why not the first instead of the twenty-first?" she demanded. "Sometimes things happen like that. Don't you think he's attractive, Helen?"

"Yes. Also he's Chris Russell, not that I need remind you. I had no idea of course at first what that meant. If he wasn't Chris Russell, would you find him so interesting?"

"How can I tell? How do you detach anyone from the things that are part of him?"

"I wouldn't know," Helen admitted.

Terry smiled at her. "Don't fuss, darling." She caught up the jacket and moved toward the door, adding, "He'll be off guard with me, you know."

Helen understood. She said grimly, "I wish you luck," rose, and put her arm through Terry's. "Come along, then. And I meant it when I said... good luck."

In the corridor Terry said, "A toast, if we had anything to toast in, to the Austins and the Russells."

"A plague on both your houses," Helen said, and was sorry at once when Terry's eyes clouded. She added swiftly, "I didn't mean that—it was stupid of me, Terry."

There was a silver of a moon like a silver shaving, and the wind had dropped. Chris and Terry walked on.

Little Hope This Session For U. S. Education Aid | Rep. Borden's Bill Bottled In House Labor Committee

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—It is considered doubtful at this time that action will be taken during this congressional session on the highly controversial Borden Bill for Federal Aid to Education.

Chairman John Lesinski (D), Michigan, who opposes the bill on the ground that it is discriminatory, has bottled it up in the House labor committee—and chances are that it will stay right there. The House, in fact, may be prevented from passing any aid to education bill at all because of the bitter controversy in Congress over provisions of the bill sponsored by Rep. Graham A. Barden (D), North Carolina.

If an education bill gets through the House, on the other hand, it will probably be a bill already passed by the Senate instead of the Barden measure.

Both Lesinski and House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (D), Massachusetts, prefer the Senate bill.

The dispute over the Barden bill centers around a provision specifically barring the use of federal funds for educational aid to private and parochial schools.

The Senate bill provides that this question of distribution should be left for the states themselves to decide.

Barden and his supporters may try to block the Senate bill if the labor committee fails to report out their measure—as is likely.

Their success in this attempt would mean that there would be no federal aid to education legislation during this congressional session at least.

● PACIFIC ABC—The State department and Secretary Dean Acheson notwithstanding, the United States shortly will be rendering aid to China. Reason for the turnabout is as simple as ABC: Aid Before Communism!

Corrupt and greedy as the Nationalists may have been, congressional leaders have come to the conclusion that in the final analysis, a Chiang Kai-shek China is better than a Kremlin China.

Additionally, hopes that it would be possible to do "business as usual" with the Chinese Communists vanished with mistreatment of American diplomatic personnel.

In Congress there is a growing demand for a firm policy against the Chinese Communists—a policy as rigid in the Pacific as the Atlantic.

It probably will not be long before the State department and the administration start spelling out the ABC's of the Pacific.

● WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE—Government aviation engineers are predicting that planes will be flying through the air at a rate of 1,500 miles per hour within the next 10 years.

They also predict, now that two years of supersonic research and development have passed, that these planes will streak through the skies at an altitude of about 15 miles above the earth.

The first type of plane to achieve this speed—which is twice as fast as sound—will be a small military plane, according to the scientists.

They add that much greater speed and higher altitudes can, and probably will, be achieved by rocket propulsion.

However, they say, no one has yet figured out how to give rocket planes any substantial range.

The government scientists point out that increases in plane speed over the past 45 years have been gradual because they could only be achieved by streamlining planes to reduce drag.

Now, however, with a new-found source of great power—jet propulsion—streamlining is no longer so important.

The jets simply pick up the planes and smash them through the air at sensationally high speeds.

Proposed Federation Of Women's Clubs Sets Memorial Hall Parley

Meet Booked For Aug. 23

Circleville club women will meet in Memorial Hall Tuesday evening, August 23, at 8 p. m., to continue the work which was started several months ago by a committee of members of Monday Club with the assistance of Mrs. James Moffitt, then president of that group.

This committee—Mrs. Charles May, Mrs. Tom A. Renick and Mrs. E. W. Hedges—contacted a group of women's clubs in Circleville asking them to send representatives to a meeting in June for the purpose of discussing problems which these groups had in common, primary among these being a meeting place.

At the June meeting a committee was elected to be known as an "Organizing Committee" for an organization of all these club groups. Named to this committee were Miss Rose Good, Mrs. Charles May, Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Joe Bell and Mrs. A. J. Lyle. Mrs. Sterling Poling was elected temporary chairman of the organization.

Since the June meeting, the organizing committee has worked out a constitution which names the organization "The Circleville Association of Women's Clubs."

The constitution proposes that the purpose of the association shall be "the promotion of the spirit of cooperation and good will among member organizations and individuals to the end that the standard of civic life in the community may be raised. It shall also be the purpose of the association to secure and maintain suitable club rooms for the use of its member organizations."

The association will serve as a clearing house for the problems of women's groups and will be a vehicle through which club groups will be able to give assistance to each other with their pet projects. The association will not be federated in any way with a state or national organization.

Groups thus far contacted represent approximately 500 women. In addition to Circleville club women plans are being made to invite other club groups throughout Pickaway County to make it a countywide organization.

Copies of the constitution prepared by the organizing committee will be submitted to the club representatives at next Tuesday's meeting. These representatives will in turn present them to their individual clubs for approval at September club meetings.

The organizing committee hopes that by the end of September all club groups will have named voting representatives to the association who will be ready to elect permanent officers and set to work accomplishing the many tasks which small groups have not been able to do alone but which such a large organization working toward one goal will not find too difficult.

The first of these tasks has been recognized by the group as finding a suitable club home which can be used by all of the member clubs. Numerous other projects aimed at making Circleville and Pickaway County a better place in which to live have already been suggested to the group.

Today's Fashion Flash

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Flirty skirts demand slips with slits! New York lingerie makers today are showing petticoats to wear under the new slashed skirts. They have three vents from hem to knee, allowing for one to three slices in dresses.

"With the slinky skirt making a comeback," said one undies designer, "our industry is having to make a costly switch in styling."

The newest slips no longer have shaped busts, but flat camisol tops. They are form-fitted and side-zipped, to avoid bulkiness under thin silk frocks.

And there's a big trend toward bold colors in all forms of underwear.

Even the girdles are gaudy!

Kitchen Family Holds Annual Reunion Sunday

Members of the Kitchen family held their annual reunion in the Laurelville community Park Sunday.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Poling and daughter Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Jud Poling, Donald and Gloria Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Poling and Maxine, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drum, of Circleville; Mrs. Rose Krinn, Mr. and Mrs. Kenby Krinn, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mosure, Roy and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Heigle, Ruth and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wyskiver, Mr. and Mrs. William J. The table, from which refreshments were served, was festooned with crepe paper and balloons. Each child was given a metallic paper hat and a favor. Linda Miller won first prize when the group played the donkey game. Guests included Patsy Lauderman, Joyce Miller, G. W. Miller, Janet Grissom, Bonnie Dudleson, and Pam Miller.

Sells Family Holds Reunion

The Sells family held its 44th annual reunion Sunday in Lancaster Fairgrounds. Eighty-seven were present. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Ellen Root of Circleville, oldest member of the Sells family present.

Mrs. Root is 81 years old. Attending from Circleville were Mrs. A. C. Root and Mrs. E. O. Cardwell.

Picnic Booked

Royal Neighbors of America will hold a picnic for members and their families at 6 p. m. Friday in Ted Lewis Park. A short business meeting will follow the basket dinner.

Charming Friend Of Veep Is Escorted Back Home

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16 — Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, "charming and lovely" friend of Vice-President Alben Barkley was back in St. Louis today—tired but happy after a rousing Kentucky welcome given her at Paducah, hometown of her dashing admirer.

She flew home Sunday with her daughter in Barkley's personal B-17 and under the personal escort of her 71-year-old "beau." After a brief stop, Barkley left in the plane for Washington, D. C.

More than 20,000 Kentuckians roared a welcome to the brunette widow and the "Veep" Sunday in Paducah in ceremonies renaming the city's airport for the vice-president.

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps staged a spectacular air show for the occasion but it remained for Barkley himself to give the romantically inclined thousands their biggest thrill.

Barkley kissed and was kissed by seven "queens"—one his seven-year-old granddaughter, Dorothy Barkley.

The courtly "Veep" precipitated the scene which delighted the throng when he remarked as he placed a wreath on his granddaughter's head:

"I'm going to do to this queen what others said I could not do to them." He then stooped and kissed little Dorothy.

The six other Kentucky queens immediately leaped to their feet and kissed the vice-president.

Mrs. Hadley seated just behind Barkley, threw both hands in front of her face in evident embarrassment and said to Mrs. Williamsport:

DRINK MILK FOR HEALTH

Drinking milk is getting health from wealth—for milk is far richer in basic nutrients, than any other food. Yet, you will find the technicians at our dairy constantly trying to bring you a still finer product. You'll find other skilled dairymen making constant tests to assure that each container leaving our plant maintains highest standards—and that the contents of each unit is exactly the same as all the others. The result is a full-bodied, creamy rich beverage—delicious to taste, providing maximum food benefit.

Proposed Federation Of Women's Clubs Sets Memorial Hall Parley

Meet Booked For Aug. 23

Circleville club women will meet in Memorial Hall Tuesday evening, August 23, at 8 p. m., to continue the work which was started several months ago by a committee of members of Monday Club with the assistance of Mrs. James Moffitt, then president of that group.

This committee—Mrs. Charles May, Mrs. Tom A. Renick and Mrs. E. W. Hedges—contacted a group of women's clubs in Circleville asking them to send representatives to a meeting in June for the purpose of discussing problems which these groups had in common, primary among these being a meeting place.

At the June meeting a committee was elected to be known as an "Organizing Committee" for an organization of all these club groups. Named to this committee were Miss Rose Good, Mrs. Charles May, Mrs. Fred Grant, Mrs. Joe Bell and Mrs. A. J. Lyle. Mrs. Sterling Poling was elected temporary chairman of the organization.

Since the June meeting, the organizing committee has worked out a constitution which names the organization "The Circleville Association of Women's Clubs."

The constitution proposes that the purpose of the association shall be "the promotion of the spirit of cooperation and good will among member organizations and individuals to the end that the standard of civic life in the community may be raised. It shall also be the purpose of the association to secure and maintain suitable club rooms for the use of its member organizations."

The association will serve as a clearing house for the problems of women's groups and will be a vehicle through which club groups will be able to give assistance to each other with their pet projects. The association will not be federated in any way with a state or national organization.

Groups thus far contacted represent approximately 500 women. In addition to Circleville club women plans are being made to invite other club groups throughout Pickaway County to make it a countywide organization.

Copies of the constitution prepared by the organizing committee will be submitted to the club representatives at next Tuesday's meeting. These representatives will in turn present them to their individual clubs for approval at September club meetings.

The organizing committee hopes that by the end of September all club groups will have named voting representatives to the association who will be ready to elect permanent officers and set to work accomplishing the many tasks which small groups have not been able to do alone but which such a large organization working toward one goal will not find too difficult.

The first of these tasks has been recognized by the group as finding a suitable club home which can be used by all of the member clubs. Numerous other projects aimed at making Circleville and Pickaway County a better place in which to live have already been suggested to the group.

Church Group Holds Meeting

Kindergarten Group To Meet

Circleville Kindergarten Association will meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Ned Griner, East Union street. The meeting is open to all parents of five-year-olds who are interested in the kindergarten project.

Mrs. Fred Grant, president, will have a final checkup on the registrations. The kindergarten will be held in the Presbyterian church this year. Miss Virginia Perry of Chillicothe will be the teacher.

Today's Fashion Flash

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Flirty skirts demand slips with slits!

New York lingerie makers today are showing petticoats to wear under the new slashed skirts. They have three vents from hem to knee, allowing for one to three slices in dresses. "With the slinky skirt making a comeback," said one undies designer, "our industry is having to make a costly switch in styling."

The newest slips no longer have shaped busts, but flat camisol tops. They are form-fitted and side-zipped, to avoid bulkiness under thin silk frocks.

And there's a big trend toward bold colors in all forms of underwear. Even the girdles are gaudy!

Kitchen Family Holds Annual Reunion Sunday

Members of the Kitchen family held their annual reunion in the Laurelville community Park Sunday.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Poling and daughter Marie, Mr. and Mrs. Jud Poling, Donald and Gloria Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Poling and Maxine, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drum, of Circleville; Mrs. Rose Krinn, Mr. and Mrs. Kenby Krinn, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mosure, Roy and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Heigle, Ruth and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wyskiver, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rutter, Paul, Mary Jo and Eddie, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Keck, Sue Hansley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heigle, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nihiser and Simon Gribble of Logan; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keck, Yvette and Paula of Lancaster.

She flew home Sunday with her daughter in Barkley's personal B-17 and under the personal escort of her 71-year-old "beau." After a brief stop, Barkley left in the plane for Washington, D. C.

More than 20,000 Kentuckians roared a welcome to the brunette widow and the "Veep" Sunday in Paducah in ceremonies renaming the city's airport for the vice-president.

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps staged a spectacular air show for the occasion but it remained for Barkley himself to give the romantically inclined thousands their biggest thrill.

Barkley kissed and was kissed by seven "queens"—one his seven-year-old granddaughter, Dorothy Barkley.

The courtly "Veep" precipitated the scene which delighted the throng when he remarked as he placed a wreath on his granddaughter's head:

"I'm going to do this queen what others said I could not do to them." He then stooped and kissed little Dorothy.

The six other Kentucky queens immediately leaped to their feet and kissed the vice-president.

Mrs. Hadley seated just behind Barkley, threw both hands in front of her face in evident embarrassment and said to Mrs.

Birthday Party Given Lad, 6

Don Miller Jr. was feted on his sixth birthday when his mother, Mrs. Don Miller, entertained at a party for him, in her home in Pickaway Township.

The table, from which refreshments were served, was festooned with crepe paper and balloons. Each child was given a metallic paper hat and a favor.

Linda Miller won first prize when the group played the donkey game. Guests included Patsy Lauderman, Joyce Miller, G. W. Miller, Janet Grissom, Bonnie Dudleson, and Pam Miller.

Sells Family Holds Reunion

The Sells family held its 44th annual reunion Sunday in Lancaster Fairgrounds. Eighty-seven were present. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Ellen Root of Circleville, oldest member of the Sells family present.

Mrs. Root is 81 years old. Attending from Circleville were Mrs. A. C. Root and Mrs. E. O. Cardwell.

Picnic Booked

Royal Neighbors of America will hold a picnic for members and their families at 6 p. m. Friday in Ted Lewis Park. A short business meeting will follow the basket dinner.

Charming Friend Of Veep Is Escorted Back Home

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16 — Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley, "charming and lovely" friend of Vice-President Alben Barkley was back in St. Louis today—tired but happy after a rousing Kentucky welcome given her at Paducah, hometown of her dashing admirer.

Several weeks ago, I said I was going to 'crown' a queen of my own. . . . There has been a great deal of rumor since then. Now, I'm going to crown seven queens."

Postal Officials On Watch To Aid Delayed Marriage

LIMA, Aug. 16—Perseverance gave love a little shove to help John Sellers, 21, of Cridersville, and Betty Sheets, 19, of Lima, become Mr. and Mrs. Sellers today.

The young couple "sweated out" their marriage license for nearly a month and an hour's delay of their wedding Saturday night.

Their difficulties were caused by the necessity that Miss Sheets have her mother's consent. Mrs. Brown, in Dallas, Tex., was sent the forms to be filled out. But, when they were returned, the papers were incorrect and had to be sent back.

Another technical difficulty was encountered when the papers came back to Lima and were returned a second time. The day before the ceremony, young Sellers "haunted" the postoffice. He made an all-night vigil of it.

Postal employees who had been alerted, sorted every mail for the letter and waited it out with Sellers, turned it over to him at 8 p. m. Saturday, an hour after the ceremony was to have started. Despite the delay, they said their "I do's" at 9 p. m.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

One of the most revolutionary projects of President Truman's welfare state program is his so-called national compulsory health insurance. It is not insurance and it will not improve health. Taxes in the sum of $6 billion a year are to be levied, for the most part on payrolls, and to be paid out by a Washington bureau to give free medical care to everyone in the United States, including the millions who are completely able to pay for it themselves.

Doctors, nurses, dentists and other health personnel would soon become, in effect, employees of the Federal government.

The cost to the taxpayer (and everyone would be a taxpayer through the payroll deductions) would probably be far more than $6 billion. Experience in England and elsewhere shows that, when medical services are free, everyone insists on treatment for the most trivial causes. Doctors are so swamped that those in real need get very poor service indeed.

A RECENT Brookings Institution survey shows that we have the best health record of any country in the world, except for a few small countries which do not have our wide variation in conditions and types of people. Our free system of private medicine has produced the best doctors in the world, and there are more of them per unit of population than in any other country.

Certainly our system can be improved, but why destroy it when it has succeeded better than any other? Freedom has been the key to the success of the American Republic. This is no time to abandon it for state-directed systems in any field. Nothing could intrude the Federal bureaucracy into the daily lives of every American family more than this national medical socialism.

There are many other things government can do to improve our system. Government and the medical profession have done a great job in the field of preventive medicine.

Many of our worst scourges like typhoid have been driven out. We are appropriating millions to check cancer, tuberculosis, heart disease and venereal diseases.

The Senate has passed a bill to help States to provide periodical inspection of the health of children in public, parochial and private schools. The Senate Committee has approved a bill to aid States to extend their local public health units to cover the entire State.

We found after the war that our facilities had fallen behind. The Federal government is aiding the States and private hospitals so that adequate hospital facilities may be available to all. The Senate Committee has recommended an increase in this aid to hospital construction, and also a bill to aid medical and other schools so that they may educate more doctors, dentists, nurses and other health personnel.

WE ARE STUDYING plans also to aid the States and localities in providing free medical care for those unable to pay for it. The obligation of local government to do this has been recognized everywhere, but there have been gaps in the performance, particularly in rural districts, and a better job should be done. If government confines free service to those unable to pay their way, we do no more than Anglo-Saxon people have always done for hundreds of years.

We are also studying the encouragement of voluntary health insurance funds so that real health insurance can be obtained at prepaid cost by all those who desire to protect themselves against calamity illness and excessive charges.

There are those who are opposed to the Federal government giving any aid to States, cities and counties. Admittedly, health is primarily a local responsibility, but many States are poor and none has the tax resources of the national government.

I know of no other way to fill up the gaps in our system or quickly to effect substantial improvement. All Federal aid legislation which I have sponsored or approved leaves complete control of administration in the States. Local self-government is absolutely essential to the maintenance of freedom in a country as large as the United States.

Memorial Hall Seeks New Piano

A search to find a piano was begun Tuesday by members of the Pickaway County Monumental Association, governing body of Circleville Memorial Hall.

Harold Hill, superintendent of the hall, said the piano now on hand, used for meetings of various clubs and for dancing in the winter, "is worthless."

Hill pointed out that since the hall was owned equally by all Pickaway County veterans and used by many civic organizations, he hoped the job of finding another piano will be easy.

We found after the war that our facilities had fallen behind. The Federal government is aiding the States and private hospitals so that adequate hospital facilities may be available to all. The Senate Committee has recommended an increase in this aid to hospital construction, and also a bill to aid medical and other schools so that they may educate more doctors, dentists, nurses and other health personnel.

There are those who are opposed to the Federal government giving any aid to States, cities and counties. Admittedly, health is primarily a local responsibility, but many States are poor and none has the tax resources of the national government.

I know of no other way to fill up the gaps in our system or quickly to effect substantial improvement. All Federal aid legislation which I have sponsored or approved leaves complete control of administration in the States. Local self-government is absolutely essential to the maintenance of freedom in a country as large as the United States.

25 Men Turn Out For Organization Of Drum Corps

Circleville American Legion passed out instruments and set the date for the first meeting of its new drum and bugle corps here during a meeting Monday night.

Jack Simison, chairman of the corps committee, said that more than 25 former drummers, buglers and new candidates turned out for the Monday session.

Simison added that the local Legion post is attempting to re-establish the drum and bugle corps here in time for this year's Pumpkin Show. The old corps disbanded here nearly 10 years ago.

First practice session of the new group is to be held a week from Thursday in Memorial Hall, Simison said.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

During my rag-tag career as a showman, I've met up with a lot of fortune tellers, and it's my bumptious belief that, when it comes to fortunes, there's just no telling.

After watching these heralds of the henceforth in night clubs and side shows for a quarter of a century, I'm convinced that (a) a palm is something to rest the chin on, and (b) that the creases in a man's skull usually come from a rolling pin, rather than the day after tomorrow.

Which brings me to the story of Princess Winona, the mind reader, a 200-pound bundle of omens and onions, all Woolworth and a yard wide.

Back in the good old missional days of the '20's, I was writing comic material for any two-bit vaudevillian who could scare up two bits. And so I was ready and willing when Princess Winona's agent informed me that his client was prepared to part with fifty bucks if I could come up with some peppy chatter to fun up her act.

That night, I borrowed a nickel from a solvent shoeshine boy and subverted my way out to the vaudeville theatre at Brighton Beach where she was playing. And, sure enough, her act was as stilted as the tall man in a circus, chockablock with the kind of wheezes an embalmer might get off after a hard day at the office.

"PRINCESS," I said when I saw her after the show, "the first thing I'd suggest is to drop the emphasis on your supernatural powers. What the act needs is a little kidding in between the miracles."

"The booking office would probably like it that way," said Her Heftiness, "but I have no intention of making light of the powers Providence has given me."

"It isn't the booking office I'm thinking of," I said, "it's the customers. And the best way to keep them from squatting on their hands is to poke fun at their own racket. You know, pull a pawn ticket out of your sleeve instead of the ace of spades—something like that."

Waddlesome Winona looked at me as if I had called her a sub-Webster name. "Young man," she said, "you're evidently confusing me with some of the charlatans you've worked for. Not only can I read minds, but nature has given me an extra sense—the ability to look into the future and predict what is going to happen."

"OK, OK," I said hastily, afraid of missing out on the fifty. "It'll take me a week to frame up a new act, and then I'd like to go over it with you. What theatre are you playing next week?"

"I wish I knew," said the Princess.

These Days

The instrument of policy now employed by the United States is the United Nations which we have housed, nurtured, protected. But the United Nations is already a failure. It seeks to develop a Parliament of Nations which must eventually become a world state. The fact is that two confederations of states are developing outside the United Nations; the Cominform, consisting of the Soviet countries from the River Elbe to the Pacific Ocean; and the North Atlantic states.

The only answer to this historical tragedy by the State Department is to offer alibis, such as the specious White Paper on China. But alibis will not serve—for history marches on. Events move before the alibis can be written.

What is needed then is a focused national policy, and as that is unattainable by men trained for the world state, it would be to America's interest to make a complete and thorough-going change in our diplomatic personnel as well as policy.

Legal Notice

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education, City School District, Circleville, Ohio, at the office of the Clerk, in the City of Circleville, Ohio, until 12:00 Noon, Eastern Standard Time, Wednesday, August 11, 1948, for all labor and material necessary for Site Improvements and Repair of the Walnut Street Elementary School Building, according to plans and specifications prepared by F. F. Glass, Architect, 20 South Third Street, Columbus, Ohio; and on file at the office of the Architect, at the office of the Clerk, open to public inspection during all reasonable office hours until the time fixed for the closing of bids.

All proposals shall be made in conformity with the General Code of Ohio, particularly Section 4824-16, and shall be on blank forms which may be obtained from the Architect and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Board of Education, City School District, Circleville, Ohio, and endorsed "Bids for Site Improvements and Repair of the Walnut Street Elementary School Building."

Each bid must contain the name and address of every person interested therein and shall be accompanied by a certified check upon a solvent bank in the State of Ohio, payable to the order of the Board of Education, City School District, Circleville, Ohio, in the amount of not less than five percent (5 per cent) of the amount of the bid. The check or bond shall become the absolute property of said Board in lieu of damages if the bidder refuses, fails or neglects to enter into a contract and furnish the required bond within 5 days after notice of acceptance of his proposal. A bond of One Hundred percent (100 per cent) of the amount of the contract, with satisfactory sureties, will be required guaranteeing the faithful performance of the work and the payment of all labor and material bills. No bid may be withdrawn after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids, for at least thirty (30) days.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of The Board of Education, City School District, Circleville, Ohio.
Aug. 2, 9, 16, 23. Virgil Cress, Clerk

Yankey Ordered Face New Trial

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—Cecil H. Yankey, 41-year-old Greenfield man convicted of the slaying of an old age pensioner, and freed from the penitentiary by Judge Cecil J. Randall, must return to Highland County for retrial.

Yankey's writ of habeas corpus failed yesterday to free him from the custody of the Highland County sheriff. Randall ruled that Yankey is still under indictment for the killing of Leroy Woodland, 71, for which he was originally sentenced to life by a trial judge.

Ohio law provides that a prisoner in a capital crime must be sentenced by a three-judge panel or a jury. Yankey studied law books while in the Ohio penitentiary, and discovered that he had been jailed illegally. So he filed his first, successful writ of habeas corpus.

Chicago Bears

Set Scrimmage

MISHAWAKA, Ind., Aug. 16—The Chicago Bears, split into the Lujack Cubs and the Luckman Bears, will kick off tonight on Mishawaka a high school's gridiron in an intra-squad game aimed at chopping 16 men from the 48-man roster.

Johnny Lujack, former Notre Dame star, will direct the Cubs, but Sid Luckman, veteran quarterback, will hand his duties to George Blanda. Luckman still recovering from surgical treatment.

The Bears' squad will be cut to 32 before the first National Football League kickoff next month.

Columbus West Golfer Leading

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—Seven-year-old Zack Willson today led the qualifiers in the Central Ohio Caddy Tournament which the 76 he carded in opening-day play yesterday.

The tourney, which ends in championship finals Saturday, saw Dave Lisska, another Columbusite, score 77 to come in second in the pack of 32.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"We've been moving north for days and here's an Eskimo, but it's still hot!"

These Days

The instrument of policy now employed by the United States is the United Nations which we have housed, nurtured, protected. But the United Nations is already a failure. It seeks to develop a Parliament of Nations which must eventually become a world state. The fact is that two confederations of states are developing outside the United Nations; the Cominform, consisting of the Soviet countries from the River Elbe to the Pacific Ocean; and, the North Atlantic states.

The only answer to this historical tragedy by the State Department is to offer alibis, such as the specious White Paper on China. But alibis will not serve—for history marches on. Events move before the alibis can be written.

What is needed then is a focused national policy, and as that is unattainable by men trained for the world state, it would be to America's interest to make a complete and thorough-going change in our diplomatic personnel as well as policy.

Yankee Ordered Face New Trial

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16—Cecil H. Yankee, 41-year-old Greenfield man convicted of the slaying of an old age pensioner, and freed from the penitentiary by Judge Cecil J. Randall, must return to Highland County for retrial.

Yankee's writ of habeas corpus failed yesterday to free him from the custody of the Highland County sheriff. Randall ruled that Yankee is still under indictment for the killing of Leroy Woodland, 71, for which he was originally sentenced to life by a trial judge.

Ohio law provides that a prisoner in a capital crime must be sentenced by a three-judge panel or a jury. Yankee studied law books while in the Ohio penitentiary, and discovered that he had been jailed illegally. So he filed his first, successful writ of habeas corpus.

Derby

Mrs. Emma Devo returned to her home here after spending the last few weeks with her son, Ernest and wife, of Huntington, W. Va.

Several friends and relatives from here attended a reception last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hollingshead. The occasion was to celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Hollingshead were married in Derby and spent several years here before moving to Mt. Sterling.

Mrs. Paul Mouser who recently returned from a Columbus hospital with her new baby, has had a relapse and is quite ill.

THEY MAY FLOP AGAIN

IBC Beating Loud Drums For Middleweight Fight

N.Y. YORK, Aug. 16—The International Boxing Club, which hasn't got a prayer in the heavyweight picture, nor a fighter either, now is dealing them from both decks in an effort to get people interested in middleweights.

Al Weill, matchmaker for the new Madison Square Garden people, let it be known yesterday that he would grant a shot at the middleweight title to the winner of next week's fight between Ray Robinson and Steve Belloise.

This presumably came at the time it did in order to raise some hubbub about the Robinson-Belloise fight a week from tomorrow night in Yankee Stadium.

This figures to be a fair crowd draw, but the International Boxing Club still remembers with horror the all-time low of 16,000 it drew for the Charles-Lesnevich fight last week, and Weill and his friends are taking no chances.

AT ANY RATE, everybody was happy about the Weill offer to Robinson and Belloise except apparently Robinson and Belloise. Represented by their managers, they met Weill's words with cautious optimism, as if doubting the chance would ever come, in which they may be right.

What would happen would be that the Robinson-Belloise winner would move in against the winner of next month's middleweight title fight between Champion Jake La Motta and Marcel Cerdan.

This ultimate bout would be held, according to Weill, in Madison Square Garden "some time this winter."

Robinson's manager, George Gainford, said at first that Sugar Ray would be happy to relinquish his welterweight title for a championship shot at the La Motta-Cerdan winner, but Eddie Walker, who manages Belloise, said he would like to see the whole thing in writing.

He wanted to make sure, Walker said, that there would be no rematch for La Motta and Cerdan.

Youngsters Due To Get Safety Demonstrations

More than 50 Pickaway County youngsters are expected to wheel their bikes and motor scooters into Ted Lewis Park Wednesday afternoon for a course in safety instruction. The session will begin at about 3 p. m.

John Magill, chairman of the Pickaway District Boy Scout committee, said the Wednesday safety course will be the first in a series of planned courses designed to teach local cycle enthusiasts safe riding habits.

Deputy Sheriff Verne Pontious will take over the instruction during the session, Magill said. The deputy is to teach the class the "hows and whys" of careful riding.

Magill added that the course is aimed only at safety education and that no one will be required to submit operator's licenses or other records to participate in the session.

Tinkers Booked To Try Again For Meet Title

Tinks softball team is slated to travel to Chillicothe Tuesday night to vie for the championship crown of the district softball tourney.

The Tinker crew, along with a sizeable crowd of boosters, invaded Chillicothe Monday for the title tilt against Portsmouth American Legion but the game was called because of rain.

Tinks stand as odds-on favorites to represent the district in the state contest later in the season, since the locals must be beaten twice before losing the tourney crown while Portsmouth will be permitted only one loss.

Tuesday's game is carded to begin at about 8:30 p. m.

9 Colleges Violate Code

CHICAGO, Aug. 16—A three-man National Collegiate Athletic Association committee reported here today that nine of its member institutions are violating the so-called "sanity code" and are in danger of being dropped from the approved athletic list.

The universities or colleges were not named but their cases will be taken up at the NCAA's national convention in New York Jan. 13-14.

The "sanity code" is a set of rules regarding scholarships and subsidization of athletes.

Palmer Pockets $10,000 For Win In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 — Boyish Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., who used to think two-bits must be most of the money in the world, today pocketed a $10,000 check, earned by licking jaunty Jimmy Demaret in a playoff for the world pro golf title in Chicago.

Palmer, a 31-year-old former caddy and textile mill hand, fired a four under par 68 in the 18-hole extra round yesterday to defeat the Ojai, Cal., linksman by two strokes.

As a consolation prize, golf's glamour boy received $7,000 from George S. May who promoted the links extravaganza at his Tam O' Shanter Country Club.

To go with the pocket money, Palmer received a huge trophy. What probably made Johnny happy was the fact that the $10,000 check put him third among the year's leading money winners.

Moore Volo Cops Roosevelt Pace

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 16—Moore Volo bounced back to his winning ways last night in the featured Williston Pace at Roosevelt Raceway to hang up a three-length victory over Marion Direct in 2:04 1-5, with Nottingham Chuck taking third.

Denny Moore handled the reins behind the four-year-old pacer.

Ump Is Fined After Fight

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 16—A fist fight between two baseball umpires cost William B. Morris of nearby Delmar $50 and costs. Morris was fined by a judge after police said he socked Alfred B. Patton of Salisbury in the jaw. Both were umpiring an amateur ball game in Salisbury when they came to blows.

IBC Beating Loud Drums For Middleweight Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—The International Boxing Club, which hasn't got a prayer in the heavyweight picture, nor a fighter either, now is dealing them from both decks in an effort to get people interested in middleweights.

Al Weill, matchmaker for the new Madison Square Garden people, let it be known yesterday that he would grant a shot at the middleweight title to the winner of next week's fight between Ray Robinson and Steve Belloise.

This presumably came at the time it did in order to raise some hubbub about the Robinson-Belloise fight a week from tomorrow night in Yankee Stadium.

This figures to be a fair crowd draw, but the International Boxing Club still remembers with horror the all-time low of 16,000 it drew for the Charles-Lesnevich fight last week, and Weill and his friends are taking no chances.

AT ANY RATE, everybody was happy about the Weill offer to Robinson and Belloise except apparently Robinson and Belloise. Represented by their managers, they met Weill's words with cautious optimism, as if doubting the chance would ever come, in which they may be right.

What would happen would be that the Robinson-Belloise winner would move in against the winner of next month's middleweight title fight between Champion Jake La Motta and Marcel Cerdan.

This ultimate bout would be held, according to Weill, in Madison Square Garden "some time this winter."

Saltcreek Township School Set For Beginning Of New Semester

Saltcreek Township school is fully staffed and ready to open its doors to the 1949-50 school year at 9 a. m. Sept. 12.

Harold Strous, superintendent of the school, said there will be but one change in the school faculty this year—the employment of Gordon Thompson of Nelsonville as fifth and sixth grade teacher and assistant coach.

Veteran teachers who are to return this fall are Florence Bochart, first grade; Marcella Reed, second and part-time third grades; Margaret Chilcote, fourth and part-time third grades; Leslie DeRth, coach and seventh and eighth grades; Helen Houseberg, English and music; Juanita Eartram, English and home economics; Alice DeLong, social science and commercial studies; Herbert Brown, physics and industrial arts; and Strous, Science.

Laura Rector, Ethel Jones and Thelma Minor are to be supervisors of the school cafeteria this year, according to the superintendent. The cafeteria will open the first day of school and is to serve meals at a cost of 20 cents per meal. About 250 meals were served daily last year.

School custodian again will be Albert Crabtree.

Strous pointed out that five busses will be employed to transport children this year, including one short route to Tarleton. Bus drivers hired by the school are Merrill Imler, Lee Bochart, Max Luckhart, Bundy Woodward and Floyd Reid. A substitute driver is to be employed later in the year, according to the superintendent.

The industrial arts room has been revised this summer, Strous said, giving additional light and better working facilities, while the outdoor tennis and basketball courts have been resurfaced. The school building itself has been painted both inside and out, he said.

More Country Phones Eyed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—The Senate Agriculture Committee is still playing around with a bill to authorize government loans for improvement of rural telephone service.

The House passed the measure weeks ago.

In a nut shell, the proposal is to extend rural telephone lines to isolated localities where private companies allegedly have refused to run them.

Man, 50, Cited In Death Case

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16 — Ben Mathews, 50, was under a charge of first degree murder today in the shooting of a 65-year-old man who argued with him about which record to play at a party.

Mathews, admitting he shot William Chalk Saturday night with a rifle, walked into Columbus police headquarters Sunday and gave himself up.

Judge Refuses To Return Man To Chain Gang

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16—Charles Ross Jr., 28, three-time loser to a Georgia chain gang, will stay in Ohio this time.

He won an extradition fight in Cincinnati common pleas court yesterday on the grounds he would be subjected to cruel and inhuman punishment if he were returned to Georgia where he fled from a chain gang June 9, 1947.

In granting a writ of habeas corpus for Ross, Judge Charles S. Bell rejected extradition papers signed by Ohio's Governor Frank J. Lausche.

The judge said: "I have sent others back to Georgia on extradition proceedings. Afterwards I ascertained the treatment they got at least caused me to mingle with the idea that they were treated by those with personal vengeance."

Ross testified that during the two months he served on his Georgia sentence he was beaten with pick handles and placed in the "hole" twice—each time for 15 days or more. He also said he still bore scars from the shackles. The prisoner said this punishment was invoked because he could not use a 49-pound sledge hammer in a quarry.

Saltcreek Township School Set For Beginning Of New Semester

Saltcreek Township school is fully staffed and ready to open its doors to the 1949-50 school year at 9 a. m. Sept. 12.

Harold Strous, superintendent of the school, said there will be but one change in the school faculty this year—the employment of Gordon Thompson of Nelsonville as fifth and sixth grade teacher and assistant coach.

Veteran teachers who are to return this fall are Florence Bochart, first grade; Marcella Reed, second and part-time third grades; Margaret Chilcote, fourth and part-time third grades; Leslie Deerth, coach and seventh and eighth grades; Helen Houseberg, English and music; Juanita Eartram, English and home economics; Alice DeLong, social science and commercial studies; Herbert Brown, physics and industrial arts; and Strous, Science.

Laura Rector, Ethel Jones and Thelma Minor are to be supervisors of the school cafeteria this year, according to the superintendent. The cafeteria will open the first day of school and is to serve meals at a cost of 20 cents per meal. About 250 meals were served daily last year.

School custodian again will be Albert Crabtree.

Strous pointed out that five busses will be employed to transport children this year, including one short route to Tarlton. Bus drivers hired by the school are Merrill Imbler, Lee Bochart, Max Luckhart, Bundy Woodward and Floyd Reid. A substitute driver is to be employed later in the year, according to the superintendent.

The industrial arts room has been revised this summer, Strous said, giving additional light and better working facilities, while the outdoor tennis and basketball courts have been resurfaced. The school building itself has been painted both inside and out, he said.

More Country Phones Eyed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—The Senate Agriculture Committee is still playing around with a bill to authorize government loans for improvement of rural telephone service.

The House passed the measure weeks ago.

In a nut shell, the proposal is to extend rural telephone lines to isolated localities where private companies allegedly have refused to run them.
